THE GREAT SASS NORTHWEST REGIONAL & TENTH ANNUAL SHOOTOUT AT HORSE RIDGE

By Palaver Pete, Life/Regulator #4375

Photos by Loni Eastman & Bunkhouse Studios

Bend, OR Howdy Pard! I'm reporting to you from Bend in the Oregon Territory, where the SASS Northwest Regional and 10th Annual Shootout at Horse Ridge was held again this year. The biggest town near the range, Bend was named "Bend" because the Deschutes River, which flows into the Columbia River, makes a bend near the town—pretty original, huh? Anyway, we had a great shoot, with top guns from all over the country in attendance, including current World Champion Badlands Bud, who said it was the best shoot of the year, and he was dead serious. Well, Bud's comment comes as no surprise because all the stages were designed to meet SASS standards for target size and distances, and Match Director Texas Jack Morales, SASS #5026, ensured there were no built-in traps or procedural mine fields. Shooters appreciated that, and comments to that effect were many. In addition to shooter friendly stages, new props were constructed, and each stage contained newly minted targets and/or renovated ones, so every clang was distinct and sharp, and there were many clangs! But, when the clanging was all over, Tumbleweed Thom, SASS #346, and Russ'n Thistle, SASS #43346, prepare to fire the Ceremonial Cannon, welcoming all shooters to the SASS Northwest Regional in Bend, Oregon.

Loden B. Kwik, SASS #37359, emerged as both Traditional and overall Regional Champion for the second year in a row. Shootswith Avegence, SASS #48516, was top Lady shooter, and captured both first place Ladies Traditional and Woman's Master Gunfighter. Badlands Bud, SASS #15821 won the Master Gunfighter Stage. Congratulations to all three shooters!

Another impressive feature of the shoot was 15 Stages were shot in three days—not 10, not 12, but 15!

Each Posse shot five stages per day, concluding by Noon before the day's heat set-in, thus permitting the shooters to socialize and shop—they liked that—the women especially. Leggs Balou, SASS #10400, reminded me SASS stands for the Single Action Shooting and Shopping Society, so it's good we had time to shop—it was good for the vendors, too. The Northwest Regional is hosted by the Horse Ridge Pistoleros, who celebrated their 10th Anniversary last March. It's a hard working club, with dedicated members who take pride in all they do—this match being no exception. Club Marshal Cowboss, SASS #49066, toes a straight line, and our Match Director, Texas Jack Morales, runs a straightforward match, and also serves as Territorial Governor. The Pistoleros have also worked hard to improve the range. Gravel has been set on roads and in the bays, thus minimizing dust and easing the path for gun carts. These range improvements, combined with the pleasant temperatures made for a very enjoyable shoot. Early morning temperatures huddled around 50 degrees F, and late afternoons varied from 80 to a Saturday high of 91, but that was long after the day's shooting was over.

Nine Posses were organized and spread out with a couple of stages between them to prevent backup. This gave the shooters ample time to concentrate, shoot in a relaxed manner, and enjoy the high desert country without another posse breathing down their necks. This good spread, combined with shooting in the cool of the morning set an easy feeling for the shooters who appreciated finishing by high noon. Cowboy Trap, Speed Pistol, and Long Range Rifle side matches were also shot in the cool of the morning.

When "Doc" Holliday headed for Tombstone's OK Corral he carried a sawed-off double barrel shotgun, commonly referred to as a "coach gun" due to its popularity with stagecoach guards. Gone are the dusty streets of Tombstone and the Butterfield Overland Stage, but the classic Coach Gun is alive and well and still available from Stoeger.

Stocked with straight or fancy grain American walnut and blued, stainless, satin nickel or high polished nickel finish, there are over twenty different models of Stoeger Coach Guns to choose in .410, 20- and 12-ga. Whether you're "riding shotgun" as a Cowboy Action Shooter or just need something dependable for home defense, Stoeger Coach Guns are value priced so you won't need to rob the stage just to own one.

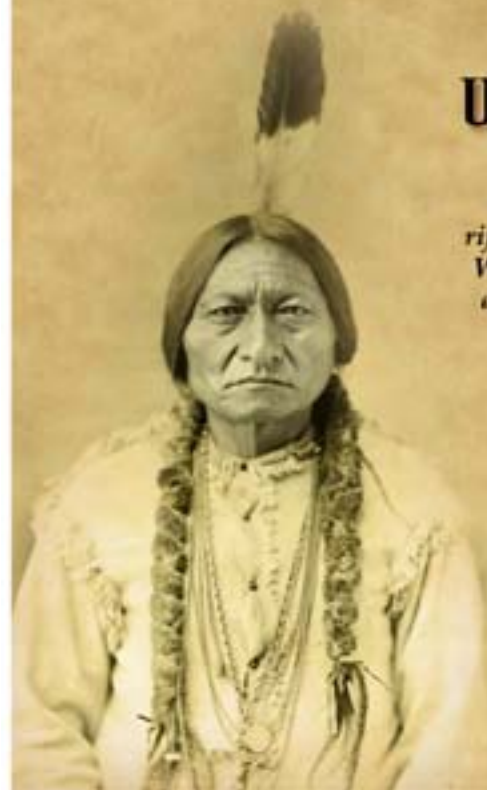

Uberti...Reaching Back Through Time

No one dreams of the Old West without conjuring up images of six-shooters and lever-action rifles. Relive the old days with an Uberti .45 Top Break like Jesse James carried, a formidable Walker black powder revolver, or a Henry lever-action, just like the one used by Sitting Bull at the Little Big Horn.

Whether you're just out target shooting or headed into the high country after big game, with an Uberti you're holding history in your hands.

HIDE CRAFTER LEATHER COMPANY ANNOUNCES MAKING VICTORIAN BALL GOWNS VIDEO

Hide Crafter Leather Company of Fort Worth, Texas has announced the introduction of a new video on "MAKING VICTORIAN BALL GOWNS FOR PENNIES" by Hurricane with one "R." The program contains volumes of valuable information on how to create your own award winning ball gowns. This video, available in both VHS and DVD, will lead you through the process of obtaining used gowns from thrift stores and yard sales and what and where to buy items to add to them for the Victorian look. You will learn how to create your own designs and how to turn them into valuable 1800's era gowns that will be admired by all.

Hurricane with one r is a Life member of the Single Action Shooting Society, #19283. She has won many national and world championship awards for costuming and is a member of the SASS Costume Committee. She is an experienced teacher and author of many magazine articles on costuming. She has previously produced very popular video programs on "Making Victorian Hats"

and "Making B-Western Outfits."

According to George Hurst, President of Hide Crafter Video Productions, "Hurricane (with one r) is a real joy to work with on these video programs. She has a wealth of valuable information on costuming and other SASS activities, and has a willingness to share this with anyone willing to learn. We are looking forward to working with Hurricane (with one r) on many more projects in the future."

NEW STOCK SADDLE FROM THE AUSTRALIAN STOCK SADDLE COMPANY

A line of Australian stock saddles built on Australian leather, with Merino sheepskin panels, but manufactured in India, is being expanded by The Australian Stock Saddle Company, of Malibu, California.

Called Australian leather saddles, they also include stuffed panels for narrow high-withered horses. The horn is optional, as is suede on seat and knee pads. All saddles come with back cinch rings. The leather is black or brown, or a combination.

As with most saddles from The Australian Stock Saddle Company, the tree is wood and steel, making it adjustable to fit any horse. Saddles in this line with horn sell for $1,295, and without horn for $1,195.

For more information, call or write, The Australian Stock Saddle Co., PO Box 987, Malibu, CA 90265. Telephone (818) 889-6988, fax (818) 889-7271, email dangaardahigloot.com, website www.aussiesaddle.com.

THE PERFECT FIT

THE RUGER® NEW MODEL SINGLE SIX® .32 H&R MAGNUM

For some shooters, a full-size Ruger Vaquero may be too much gun, while a rimfire Single Six may not be quite enough. That's why many single action shooters turn to the Ruger New Model Single Six .32 H&R Magnum. The .32 H&R Single Six, with its smaller frame, lighter weight and reduced recoil is the perfect fit for shooters who want a real "Old West" experience in a firearm that's easy to handle and a pleasure to shoot. Choose from five models including blued or gloss stainless steel with either rosewood or simulated ivory short-grips or black micarta bird's head grips.

WHY SHOULD YOU BUY YOUR STEEL TARGETS FROM US?

- CERTIFIED AR500 ARMOR STEEL FOR MAXIMUM DURABILITY
- ANGLED TARGET FACES WITH NO EXPOSED BOLTS OR CLAMPS
- SASS RECOMMENDED SHAPES AND SIZES - 16" MINIMUM
- 2-FOOT, 3-FOOT, & 4-FOOT STANDS

GUARANTEE: If one of our targets fails to perform the way we say it will, we will replace it free.

SUPERIOR STEEL: Every shooting surface is made of certified AR500 armor steel. That means zero damage from standard handgun, cowboy rifle, and shotgun rounds. Zero.

SUPERIOR DESIGN: Our patented design allows the target heads to "bounce" when they are hit which increases instant visual feedback and simplifies scoring. The target heads rest at a forward angle to direct bullet splatter into the ground, and there are no exposed bolts, brackets, clamps or other hazards on the target faces which eliminates the secondary splatter that results when these obstacles are inevitably hit.

EXPERIENCE: We have been building steel targets for law enforcement and military ranges for almost 20 years. We know steel, we know design, and we want every range and every shooter in the country to benefit from that knowledge. Call us today and see how good steel targets can be.

"I use only the best products in my shooting schools, which is why I use steel targets from Action Target. They use the best steel, they have the best designs, and they have 20 years of experience designing target systems and shooting ranges around the world. Quality steel targets are an important part of cowboy shooting, so buy the best from Action Target." - Evil Roy

THE SASS WOOLLY AWARDS

TO BE PRESENTED AT THE 4TH SASS CONVENTION

SASS will proudly present its 4th Annual Woolly Awards aka "The Woolies" during the SASS Convention Yesteryear Ball in the Grande Ballroom of the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas December 3, 2005. In a newly designed presentation format, the top three nominees will be recognized before the final award is presented. Similar to other awards presentations in the sporting world, the SASS Convention Woolly Awards will attempt to capture the excitement and anticipation of the format in a fast paced, twenty minute production at the very beginning of the ball. The presentation will include an audio visual accompaniment and will be hosted by two well known SASS members.

The Woolly Awards recognize "Best of The Year" for SASS Affiliated Club, Annual Match, Territorial Governor, New Product, Merchant, and Media (TV or Movie). One bronze Woolly Award in the image of the SASS Marshall in woolies is presented for each category.

Nominations for the categories of SASS Affiliated Club, Annual Match, Territorial Governor, New Product, Merchant, and Media (TV or Movie) are now being accepted. Clubs that wish to nominate themselves for Best of the Year should submit a package of photos, testimonials, video, media clipping and anything else they want to be considered for Club, Annual Match and Territorial Governor. To nominate a Product, Merchant or Media, simply send in your nomination along with any material pertinent to your nominee's credentials.

Nominations must be received in the SASS office no later than October 15. Nominations should include the official nomination form found in the Cowboy Chronicle, SASS Convention Web Site or by requesting one from SASS Headquarters.

Winners of the Woolly Awards are determined by a review of the SASS Woolly Award Committee and will be announced only during the awards presentation. Nominees will be notified in advance.

Madd Mike, SASS #8595

Thank you Bulls Head Bill for your article, “Sunrise over Hoover Dam” (Part 4 of Ballgown Express May ’05) as your writing reminded me of the first time that we crossed the dam after 9/11.

For about a year following the September 11 attacks on the twin towers, all trucks, busses and RV’s were not allowed to cross Hoover Dam, which is located on the Colorado river, the very dam responsible for forming the wonderful water wonderland in the middle of the desert we know as the Lake Meade Recreational Area. This tourist attraction (Hoover Dam) is smack dab in the middle of any southern driver’s trip, if they are heading north to Las Vegas and destinations beyond.

The current Homeland Securities restriction still denies commercial trucks and maybe busses from crossing the dam, but RV’s are now allowed after a physical inspection has been performed. Construction is currently under way for a badly needed, brand new, right outta the box bridge that will leave Hoover Dam to the tourists, and travelers will be able to save considerable time by simply going over the top of that expansive canyon area.

Our first crossing of the dam after 9/11 was interesting because they were just then allowing RV’s to cross, but only after careful examination by highly trained, for lack of a better term, RV searchers.

We were headed for a weekend of SASS shooting in Yuma; a great annual match by the way, another one of those great shoots you have to sign up for right away. Anyway, I was dressed period correct for the drive. I had Bar D Hombre’s shooting club signs on my towing vehicle’s doors, and a Chronicle on the seat beside me, as we pulled under the well lit, search area about midnight. The highly trained government official approached the drivers’ side door and politely invited me to show him all of the storage compartments and the inside of my RV. As I get out of the truck, right away he sees I am not dressed like any ol’ dude supporting a cowboy hat. I immediately hand him a copy of The Cowboy Chronicle and explain we are on our way to a cowboy action shoot in Yuma. I don’t think it really registered in his mind at that time. After all, what is cowboy action shooting, he was thinking.

After opening a couple of the outside storage doors for inspection, we found ourselves on the darker side of the RV, since it was night. As I pulled down the stairs to facilitate his proper entry into my covered wagon, he flashed his flashlight at the door’s key opening for me, and guess what I have plastered around the doorknob? Yep, them darn fake bullet hole stickers. As his flashlight flashes across them, he takes a double take and a half a step back at the same time. By then I open the door, and within inches of the door is my handy dandy long-gun rack, complete with three 73’s, three 97’s and some side match long guns, pert-near a dozen of ‘em in all. As he steps into my covered wagon, he gulps for air, looks at the cover of The Cowboy Chronicle still in his hand, turns around and looks at me with a somewhat concerned look, and says “just what is it you say you doooo?” My answer once again was “the family sport we affectionately call Cowboy Action Shooting™” Then he turns towards the bunkhouse portion of the RV, and next to the bed is a pistol holding rack, openly displaying three pairs of match pistols, two pocket pistols, a derringer, and 22 pistols for side matches.

There was more serious rubbing of his chin as he inspected that pistol holding rack. I lifted the queen-sized bed for his inspection underneath and all he sees are cowboy boots, chaps, and chinks. He shook his

The EVIL ROY is produced on the tooling of the proven Cimarron Model "P" "Cowboy Comp". It features internal parts produced exclusively for Cimarron and springs from U.S. manufacturers. The rear sight notch is large and square while the front sight is wide with no taper, giving the shooter the finest sight picture for this fast and short range shooting sport. The grips are hand checkered or smooth walnut - very slim and trim for fast and safe handling.

The actions are set up in the USA to function safely with lighter hammer action; no creep and safe but crisp trigger pull. Each revolver is regulated to shoot dead center left and right windage. The shooter may adjust for elevation if required by his/her shooting style.

The Cimarron 'Evil Roy' model comes in your choice of standard factory case colors or in a USA premium finished model featuring color case hardening by Doug Turnbull.

Evil Roy, Wicked Felina and Holy Terror have been shooting the prototypes of this new model for nearly a year with great results - including National and World Championships.

Cat Ballou, SASS #55

(This month's guest columnist, Col. Richard Dodge, is a frequent contributor to The Cowboy Chronicle and is an authority on dance and its history. The Masquerade Ball at the SASS Convention will feature Victorian Dances, and this article imparts necessary instructions for brushing up on your "cowboy waltz" techniques beforehand ... Cat)

For over 200 years, the waltz has been considered the ultimate social dance. Danced by European peasants for untold decades before, it first appeared in 'proper' social ballrooms in the early 1800s. It scandalized everyone except the young adults to whom it was a wonderful break from the stiff minuets of the recently passed Baroque period of the late 18th Century.

The conservative minded elders of the time viewed the waltz, with its close embrace and pleasurable turns, as the embodiment of lust and evil. It was banned from public dances for much of the first half of the 19th Century. A Catholic could be excommunicated from the church for dancing it – even in Early California!

The famous Don Juan Bandini of San Diego introduced the waltz to the Californios in the 1830s in open defiance of the church's edicts, and the Californios took it to heart in spite of the padres' efforts. It was common to divert the padre's attention during the fandangos so both young and old could partake of the waltz's forbidden pleasures.

The waltz remained in disfavor well into the 19th Century until the polka appeared. That joyous dance lacked the waltz's erotic undertones, and it swept away the resistance against the very idea of close couple dancing. Both dances are still with us and probably will be for generations to come.

Having arrived in America just in time to be integrated into the westward movement, both dances became important activities in that period of American history. To those of us interested in the American West, it is worthwhile to understand what the dance was all about and how it was danced.

You must understand dancing is integral to a woman's genetics. I have rarely met a woman who didn't long to be swept away in a dance, safe in a man's arms. They love it! You shouldn't disappoint them.

First of all, forget anything you ever learned about dancing from your Western Line Dance class or Arthur Murray's Dance Studio. The waltz under consideration here is from the Victorian Age of the 19th Century and bears little resemblance to the creations of today's social dance choreographers. Think "Viennese Waltz," or more properly, "Victorian Waltz."

Dance was an important social activity in the Old West and the level of skill was generally high. Dancing was an integral part of West Point training, and the military posts were staffed with officers who had learned the finer points of ballroom etiquette. A large portion of those on the westward trek were either from the late, genteel Old South or from northern and western Europe with a long tradition in social dance. New Englanders and Southern planters alike brought their dances west with them to add to the mix, and the waltz was one of the most important.

Now, to the dance. The music for the Victorian waltz was quick – and remained so well into the late 20th Century. It rotates primarily clockwise and ideally should travel in a counterclockwise direction around the dance floor. Couples remain in a closed dance position throughout the dance.

The dance remained that way well into the 1930s when American dance masters slowed the music, which allowed for the introduction of new figures to sell to students and broke the mold of the old, hoary Victorian waltz. However, that was far in the future for 'cowboy waltzing.'

There are volumes written about dance etiquette; however, for now we'll just talk about the technique and style of the Victorian waltz. I'll start with a few basic rules:

First: TAKE OFF YER SPURS!! No one with an ounce of brains or courtesy would attempt to dance on a crowded dance floor with spurs on. Spurs can trip up the wearer as well as anyone who gets too close, and woe to the cowboy whose spurs get caught up in fair lady's sweeping skirts. At an Old California fandango, a vaquero indicated he wished to join in a dance by removing his spurs and placing them on his saddle horn. You'd be wise to do likewise.

Next: You should be close enough that the man's right wrist is straight, with his right arm rounded and horizontal. Right knees should be between your partner's knees, right foot between your partner's feet.

Next: The lady should place her left hand on the shelf behind the man's right shoulder and apply just enough pressure down on his right arm to feel the lead. DO NOT PRESS DOWN!! That's your partner's gun arm, and you can cause severe fatigue in the shoulder muscle, leading to missed targets, and all the grief that goes with that.

Next: MEN START WITH YOUR BACK TO THE CENTER OF THE ROOM AND STEP BACKWARD! It was (and is) considered rude and potentially dangerous to start the lady backward when she's wearing floor-length skirts. One can only imagine the embarrassment of the lady stepping on her skirts and causing either torn fabric or a dangerous fall – or both. By moving backward first, the man moves the woman forward and starts the skirt to swirl out of the way. During the Ragtime Era of the early 20th Century, Irene Castle of the famous dance team decided to shorten her skirts. Vernon Castle promptly started moving her backward and women have been dancing backward ever since.

Next: Think of the waltz as being backward and forward, rather than a sideways movement. The man steps backward a very small step on the left foot while turning his upper body to the right and bringing his partner toward him (the lead comes before the step). The lady follows by stepping forward on her right foot between her partner's feet. Both then pivot clockwise and step sideways on the free foot, then close with the first foot. The process is then reversed, with the woman stepping backward on her left foot and the man stepping forward on his right foot BETWEEN HER FEET!! More anguish is caused here than anywhere else. You actually want to cross legs at the knees, stepping on your own centerline; it's the only place you know your partner's foot isn't.

Ideally, each three-count waltz step should make a half turn, partners facing either in or out of the circle on the closing step. Think: a quarter turn backward plus a quarter turn pivot sideways and close; repeat continuing forward – side – close. However, this is a difficult turn requiring considerable practice. Until you're ready to do it, it's best to remain in the center of the room and do the turn with less than a half turn per measure. Just keep the steps small and think: Backward and Forward.

Just as in normal walking, you have to be a little off-balance to dance any spinning dance. You do know you have to be off balance to walk, don't you? By learning to use the idea of imbalance and counter balance, you can make the waltz into your own little piece of cowboy/cowgirl heaven.

Remember, gents: she'll love you for it. 🤠

Chiz, SASS #392
SASS Marketing Director

I would like to take a moment to remember those who lost their lives in the 911 disaster in 2001. You are not forgotten. In particular, let's remember Sidewinder Pete, SASS #6585, a New York City fireman who perished that day in the World Trade Center. Mac Daddy, our SASS graphics designer created the tribute imagery for Pete on this page and the opposite page. Thanks Chris.

Wooly Awards

The annual Wooly Awards to be presented at the SASS Convention in December will take on a new prominence. In a newly designed presentation format, the top three nominees will be recognized before the final award is presented. Similar to other awards presentations in the sporting world, the SASS Convention Wooly Awards will attempt to capture the excitement and anticipation of the format in a fast paced, twenty-minute production at the very beginning of the ball. The presentation will include an audio-visual accompaniment and will be hosted by two well-known SASS members. For more details, see my article in this issue of The Cowboy Chronicle, and please send in your nominations for Best of the Year for Clubs, Annual Match, Territorial Governor, Media and Merchant. The SASS Convention takes place December 1-4 in Las Vegas.

SASS Western Regional

The SASS Western Regional, Shootout at Deadman's Point had to move its location just seven miles down the road to Lions Pride Park & Gun Range, home of the Double R Bar Regulators, after being informed by the Deadman's Point land owner he is no longer interested in hosting our shoot on his property. This last minute notification comes after failed negotiations and comes as a shock to SASS and the event organizers who now have to revamp their plans.

The new location, which belongs to the Lions Club of Lucerne Valley, is a smaller location but equally scenic, as it rests in the foothills of the boulder strewn landscape the region is known for. The new site will be spruced up for the event and can easily contain the motor home parking, vendors, and day shooters parking on its 80 acres. SASS is thankful to the Lions Club and the Double R Bar Regulators for providing its shooting range for our event.

The match will be 12 stages and feature all the elements and entertainment that have been planned for the past six months. Shootout Beyond Deadman's Point is the new event name and takes place October 6-9, 2005. Proceeds from the annual poker tournament will benefit the Happy Trails Children's Foundation located in Apple Valley.

Buffalo Range Riders

And finally, Founders Ranch has created its own SASS Affiliated Club, The Buffalo Range Riders. Its first monthly match takes place in September and will include both an Action and Mounted faction. The new web site is up at www.buffalorangeriders.com. Matches will be held monthly on the first Sunday of each month. Members are invited to camp the night before each match.

CATEGORIES SERVE AT OUR PLEASURE

By Palaver Pete, Life/Regulator #4375

“I think the Senior Category should be cut in half: 60-65 remains Senior, 66 to 70 Senior Citizen, and 70 stays as Elder Statesman and Grand Dame.”

I feel we need another category or two after Elder Statesman and Grand Dame. I know the Category Field is getting large, but better to be growing than shrinking. Continuous review and change keeps a sport vibrant and dynamic, and Cowboy Action Shooting™ definitely has both of those traits. In this regard, I think Categories should be under constant review to assess the need for change.

In addition to Categories after Elder Statesman and Grand Dame, I think the Senior Category should be expanded. For example, when I was 69 years, 11 months and 29 days old, Evil Roy turned 60. We were now both in the Senior Category. Regardless of age, I could never compete with Evil Roy, and that’s not the point. My point is, although I was 10 years older than Evil Roy, I was competing in the same category as him, and that did not seem like a level playing field. The 10-year difference in age does make a difference—coordination and agility both become a factor. I think the Senior Category should be cut in half: 60-65 remains Senior, 66 to 70 Senior Citizen, and 70 stays as Elder Statesman and Grand Dame.

Today, thanks to medical advancements, we live longer. True, Nursing Homes are filling up, but not necessarily with hearty and happy Cowboy Action Shooters. No Sir, we are on the cutting edge of showing the rest of the world how to live longer by enjoying life; thus, we are living longer—thus we must be receptive to adding categories for the truly maturing shooter. My opinion is the Elder Statesman and Grand Dame Categories should be 70-75. On the month a shooter turns 76, he/she should be placed in the Wizened Wizard Category, like Male Wizened Wizard and Lady Wizened Wizard. Then on the month of the 80th birthday, the shooter should be placed in the CENTURION Category—Men and Lady Centurions. Adding more Categories does not necessarily mean financial drain by the addition of more trophies and plaques. Recognition is the key here—we don’t need no stinking trophies. We need recognition. Let’s recognize the ability to do well at an advanced age. If an 80 year-old person goes sky diving, the event is featured on the “Today Show.” If an 80 year-old shooter places first, it goes without recognition. At least we in the Cowboy world can acknowledge the feat.

We should not be dictated by the reluctance to change. Change is healthy, and since we are growing, we need to change with that growth. Hopefully we will soon need a Category for shooters over 100!

RESPONSE TO PALAVER
PETE’S LETTER ABOUT
WESTERN 3 GUN

By Bird Dawg Dan, SASS #59914

The July The Cowboy Chronicle published a letter from Palaver Pete, Life/Regulator #4375, titled “Western 3 Gun Is Not For Me.” While I whole-heartedly defend Palaver Pete’s right to his own opinion, I must take exception when he presents misinformation as fact.

He begins with the comment “W3G as a spin-off of Cowboy Action Shooting™ is not growth-it’s fragmentation.” I agree it would be fragmentation if folks left SASS to join W3G, but that’s not the case. All of the folks I shoot with in our local W3G club also belong to SASS and shoot in several local monthly matches. In addition, we have had folks come out to see/shoot a W3G match that have then joined both SASS and W3G.

Palaver then states, “The number of new shooters doesn’t go up - SASS and the NRA don’t gain new members, the numbers simply move laterally. Real growth occurs when new people pay and join an existing sport.” That’s true, and we have had new members join SASS and W3G because a father brought them out to a W3G match.

Is W3G a meld of IPSC and SASS? From my viewpoint, yup. But is it a “forum for those that want to be paid for their fast shooting.”? In my opinion, nope. W3G does have a category for those that want to compete for cash prizes. But, for us mere mortals there are categories where we can slug it out for the traditional buckles and trophies.

When Palaver Pete states that other than the “cash” shooters nothing has changed, he’s not seeing what W3G has to offer. The changes are dramatic from the standard “three pistol, three rifle target stage garnished with two shotgun knockdowns,” and are not to be confused. In W3G, movement of the shooter while shooting is encouraged, and, in fact, is designed into the stages. And by the way, to my knowledge, only the Annual Match has the cash category. All our monthly matches are for the traditional bragging rights we find in all SASS

COWBOY AIR FLUFF?

By Kitty Kay Johnson, SASS #20790

The following is a conversation I overheard between two cowboys at the Colville, WA annual shoot in May.

Cowboy 1: “I don’t know whether to try to wash these pants or have them dry cleaned.”

Cowboy 2: “What are they?”

C1: “All cotton.”

C2: “You could wash them in cold water.”

C1: “On the gentle cycle?”

C2: “Then hang them up to dry.”

C1: “I have an ‘air fluff’ setting on my dryer. I could run them on that for about an hour.”

C2: “Yep, that would work”

Cowboys and “air fluff”? I had to laugh, and told my husband about it. He thought it was hilarious, and had me write everything down so I could share it with The Cowboy Chronicle readers.

(Yes, Cowboy Action Shooting™ is the only sport where guys talk about their clothes and women talk about their guns ... Cat.)🐾 monthly matches.

Palaver Pete is having a great time with the SASS matches he shoots, and to me that’s what it’s all about. But I ask Palaver Pete this - find out the truth about W3G. Visit a match or talk to those that have. Learn what it is and how it works. Then, if you still feel the same way, what you have to say about W3G will actually mean something. Palaver, if you ever find yourself in Northern California on the 4th Saturday of the month, we’ll pay your entry fee to give W3G a try.

(SASS’ position regarding W3G is clubs and individuals can do what they like ... but W3G is banned from SASS sanctioned matches (SASS state championships and above) because SASS considers moving with a live round under the hammer of any firearm unsafe. W3G may have overblown its intention to establish a “money shoot” discipline, but SASS has never been happy with the prospect of shooting for cash or valuable prizes based upon place of finish ... editor.)🐾

Dearest Mother,

I have safely arrived, but what a tumultuous journey! Our stagecoach was stopped by the notorious Lone Highwayman!

He doffed his hat and asked me to "be so kind as to pass this around" so we could deposit our valuables into it. I protested, but his gun was terribly convincing.

Despite my fear, I daresay that outlaw was among the most courteous of men. I am intrigued that someone so mannerly could hold such a callous profession.

CCW’S – A LICENSE OR A PRIVILEGE?

By Nubbins Colt, SASS #7802

In the April Cowboy Chronicle, Eastern Ranger replies to me directly with respect to a lawsuit against the Federal government using Article IV of the US Constitution. The editors and I recall running a lengthy piece on the subject not too long ago, but none of us have the time to look for it. However, e-mail me directly, and I’ll supply it to you. Suffice it to say Eastern Ranger’s argument, and the fact he says, “most would agree a CCW is granted as a privilege” is completely incorrect legally. The CCW is a license, not a privilege, and there is a big difference.

Saying “Most would agree a CCW permit is granted as a privilege to the individual by the state in which that person resides” doesn’t make it so, and I do hope “most” do not agree. Eastern Ranger’s point is once the privilege is granted, it should be recognized like drivers’ licenses are recognized, and he says all of the states support this view. He is simply incorrect.

A license is not a privilege. One obtains a privilege, as that term is used legally, on some kind of automatic basis along with all the other residents of your state. A license requires a test, a test designed solely by your state and only recognized as valid by other states if they are so inclined, and generally, if it is a test, using similar qualities to parallel tests given in other states for granting the same license. Drivers’ licenses are exactly like that and are governed by statewide pacts or a uniform Federal statute for recognition. Saying, “Most would agree a CCW permit is granted as a privilege” is an assumption based on common experience without knowledge of the underlying facts.

Marriage licenses are similarly governed; there is a pact or statute

TO ALL SASS CLUBS - PETITION RUGER FOR NEW VAQUERO CALIBERS

By Montana Tony, SASS #28335

Ruger said if they got enough signatures on petitions from enough SASS clubs, they would make the New Vaquero in all three barrel lengths for the .44-40 and .44 spl/.44 mag, add 7 1/2” to the .357 mag, and there was a very slight chance of including the .38-40.

I am asking all SASS members to participate if this interests them. The Wasatch Desperados, Wasatch Summit Regulators, Big Hollow Bandits, and Deseret Historical Shootist Society club members of Utah want these calibers and barrel lengths. Also Ruger told me they received many phone calls to their Newport, New Hampshire office requesting the .44-40 in all three barrel lengths. Ruger needs the feedback ASAP in order to start governing their recognition, clearly seen by the current battle today over same sex marriages. A host of professional licenses are similar, but there is no pact, except for the CPA license, which is Federal, and almost all professional licenses require state-by-state recognition or reciprocity before one can practice a profession state to state. And, even then one has to apply. You cannot set up an office and hang out your office shingle until your new state grants you your new license.

That, in summary, is the essence of this debate. Wire Nubbins Colt directly for details.

do unless, of course, the state itself decides not to exercise this new found confiscatory power. SASS is basically screwed and Founder's Ranch is totally tattooed.

Think it can't happen? It already has in many cases. Not even a day after the Supreme Court ruling was announced, local governments filed numerous eminent domain actions. According to WND reports, officials in Freeport, Texas for example, initiated action to seize two family owned seafood companies paying the way for construction of an $8 million dollar marina!

There are a few things that always separated our free republic from communism—private property being one of those critically important linchpins of distinction. If this ruling stands, that distinction will have been severely eroded. This is as dangerous a ruling as I have ever seen in my lifetime.

To quote James Madison, "Government is instituted to protect property of every sort. ... That alone is a just government which impartially secures to every man, whatever is his own."

But what happens when it's government that's doing the taking with a focus on nothing more than increasing tax revenue rather than protecting a citizen's constitutional rights?

And wouldn't this be a grand new way to confiscate local gun ranges that have come under such heavy attack in recent years? So what happened to that "just government" Madison spoke of?"

What troubles me just as much as the Court's arrogant disregard for this most basic Constitutional premise is how astoundingly deafening has been the relative silence from the Legislative and Executive branches on such a travesty! Although a few in Congress have shown some "made for TV" bluster in the form of token statements, the Executive Branch has gone out of its way to avoid taking a stand.

The lack of authentic outrage coupled with their 'fate accompli' acceptance of this attack on a fundamental freedom again reveals how little respect those currently holding elected and appointed office have for the sanctity of our Constitution. It also shows beyond any doubt how arrogantly cavalier they are about their sacred oath to preserve, protect, and defend—as if anyone needed yet another example of that!

Just the view from my saddle...

THE BIRTH OF A COWBOY ACTION CLUB or
Why I should have my head examined!
Part 2

By Juaquin Malone, SASS Life#44677

(Part I was presented in June and chronicled the efforts to establish a new Cowboy Action Shooting™ Club in Illinois.)

The second match was held, and counting the Preacher and I, there were four shooters present, a huge disappointment. Also, we found some of the board members had given the Archery Club exclusive access to the facility the 1st Saturday in September, the day we had been given for our 3rd match. A lot of acrimony surfaced and suddenly three board members resigned. The remaining officers issued an apology to the Preacher and stated they would buy a few targets, furnish a meal, and buy some prizes for the 3rd shoot, and we could pick another day to have the match. The turnout was the same as for match number two, and parts of those prizes are still not reimbursed. After all of the time spent promoting, this was an even bigger disappointment. While this was all going on, Preacher received an invitation for the Illinois Rangers to submit a stage to the Last Frontier annual match at Berry to be held in October. He agreed, and since the Berry match was the same day as our monthly match, we decided September would be the last match for 2003. We would start again in the spring, hoping continued PR work would help boost attendance in the spring. The gun club designated a section of land to be a permanent location for “Cowboy Action” with its own entrance and parking lot. But, the area would have to be shared with the rifle shooters. The Preacher had to clear the trees from the site, and then the person who was going to do the excavating decided he would be unable to donate the service and needed at least a thousand dollars. In the meantime, the annual election of officers for the gun club was coming up, and the Preacher decided to run for the board. Due to the health of our mother, Preacher was unable to attend the November board meeting and some of our 1st Saturdays of the month were given to the Archery Group again. At the annual meeting in December, it was decided a person from each discipline (Trap, Archery, Blackpowder, and Cowboy) would be appointed to the board. The Preacher became the board member for Cowboy Action Shooting™, and then pistol and rifle shooting in general were thrown in with the Cowboy Committee. Following that meeting, a board meeting was held, and the Preacher made a stand saying dates could not be switched around, either we had the 1st Saturday of the month all the time or not at all. A vote was taken, and it was settled we would get the 1st Saturdays. After the board meeting, the Archery board member came up to Preacher and said, “If you think you are going to keep that same date every month for good, you better think again.” We were unable to get any access to the area designated for us until May because of the excavating that was supposed to be done. May came near and nothing was done, but finally the week before the scheduled match, Preacher cleared some of the brush. No excavation was done. During this whole process not one member of the sponsor club came to a single shoot. We reached the end of September of our second year, and we still have no parking lot, nor has any excavating been done. Meanwhile our credibility has gone down the tubes because none of the improvements we have been telling people about have come to past and attendance has suffered

Our third committee member has not put in an appearance this year or answered e-mail. So, it has been up to Preacher with what little help I can give from 100 miles away. We talked about approaching another club about 20 miles away from the current location, but just about that time, we discovered someone else was starting a cowboy club there. Because there was still no decision made on associate membership (so we can get the $1,000,000 insurance), we are unable to obtain SASS affiliation and the benefits of publicity that provides. What the fate of the club will be is anyone's guess at this time. There will be another big fight in December at the annual planning meeting.

Recently the president of the sponsor club, a board member, and the executive secretary have resigned. The executive secretary has been replaced by the Archery board member. My guess is there probably will not be an Illinois Ranger club next year. You have been patient listening, so I will be thanking you because it is the Cowboy Way. I can be reached at juaquin@thecowboyway.us 🤠.

ROLLIN' ON THE RIVER: The Further Adventures of "Kincaid's Irregulars"

By Sweetwater Jack, SASS Life #28885

Territorial Governor for the World-Famous Merlin Marauders

06 June 2005

It was the 23rd of May, in the year 1865, and the sleepy little town of Memphis was basking in the warm Tennessee sun, unaware of its imminent invasion by hordes of (well, OK, two dozen) SASS members under the general (and very loose) control of Ellsworth T. Kincaid and his lovely wife, Lady Stetson. Our purpose was to ravage the town and escape down-river aboard the famous stern-wheel Paddle Steamer "DELTA QUEEN." Unlike the combatants of nearly a century and a half earlier, we laid waste mostly to the Memphians' store of catfish, BBQ (several GREAT varieties), and various adult beverages. Intelligence gathering was conducted on subjects as diverse as Memphis' role as a key to the Mississippi during the Civil War, the origins of the "Blues" (with a tour of the W.C. Handy home), and the life of someone named "Elvis Aaron Presley" and his home at "Graceland."

After three days of intelligence gathering in Memphis, we escaped under cover of darkness aboard the "DELTA QUEEN," our ranks now swollen to over 60 co-conspirators. "On to VICKSBURG!" was the shout! Arriving in Vicksburg, some fanned out to espy the famous battlefield, many cleverly disguised in uniforms of the "Blue-bellies" and not a few in the grey and butternut of "Johnnie Rebs," while others opted for touring the plantations and historic homes to be found in the area, boarding in time to cast off and continue downriver. Next stop? Natchez! Landing at the area known as "Natchez Under The Hill," and learning a lot about its unsavory past, many of our stalwart crew headed inland to tour the famous Frogmore Cotton Plantation and Gins (No, not THAT kind of gins) as well as many historic homes built in and around the Civil War period.

Continuing our journey down the mighty Mississippi, St. Francisville, Louisiana was our next port of call. Here, the group's choices for shore excursions were labeled: "Siege and Serenity;" "Hauntings, Hudson, and History;" "The Big House;" and "A Family Affair." The "Big House" tour did indeed include the well-known Angola Prison, which holds the famous Angola Prison Rodeo each October. The tours in the Baton Rouge area were launched from our mooring at St. Francisville due to a chemical spill where the DELTA QUEEN was scheduled to tie up. Down-river in Vacherie, LA, some of us toured the Oak Alley Plantation, while other brave souls explored the Louisiana swamps. A head-count that evening assured the DELTA QUEEN's Master none were lost to the swamp or swamp creatures, and we shoved off for our final destination, the "Big Easy," or as some refer to it, New Orleans.

While on board the DELTA QUEEN, as on cruises past, period-correct dress was maintained both night and day, with the most "finery" being worn during the evenings, especially on the "special" evenings such as the "Blue and Grey" nights and the night of the "Captain's Dinner." As has become the tradition, one day devoted to "steamboatin" with no port of call scheduled, is "underwear day" where the gentlemen "dress" in red long-handles with coonskin caps and moccasins, and the ladies in Victorian "frillies" or bathing costumes. "Blackmail photos" (mostly of the men) abound!

In New Orleans, about half of our number signed off and departed for home. Undaunted, the rest of us proceeded ashore and treated ourselves to the luxury of the beautiful Hotel Monteleone, in the French Quarter, for another two days of sampling the sights, sounds, and tastes of this historic city. The touring continued as we visited the Confederate Museum, Historic Homes of the City, and the Chalmette Battlefield, scene of the British defeat in the Battle of New Orleans in 1815 ... a battle that supposedly took place AFTER the War of 1812 was OVER! (But WAS it? Ask one of us). Our evenings were taken up in walking tours of the Quarter, including a Haunted History Tour of "Ghosts and Spirits." Saturday morning, 4 June, found us gathering for a final breakfast together. Then, with hugs and handshakes, we made our separate ways home.

The next gathering of the "Irregulars" is to be from September 2-9, 2006, aboard the Paddle Steamer EMPRESS of the NORTH," steaming the Alaska Inland Passage from Juneau to Skagway, Glacier Bay, Point Adolphus, Sitka, Petersburg, Wrangell, Misty Fjords, Ketchikan, Le Conte Glacier, Tracy Arm Fjord, and back to Juneau.

THE BUFF'LER HUNT
One Cowpoke's Experience in the Wild West
Part 2

By Hill Beachy, Deputy Sheriff of Lewiston, I.T., SASS #5327

Buffalo aren't the most difficult critters in the world to hunt. They do, however, present a few unique challenges. Having learned pickup trucks seldom bring danger, but men on foot or horseback are generally followed by gunfire, the herds tend to be a bit wary. This is even more true with the main herd than with the smaller, bachelor-bulls (the result of all those extra eyes watching for danger). So, a short stalk through the grass is still required to get within range. Sometimes, the herd will spook, and you'll have to start over again. Buffalo are herd animals and will sometimes engage in what seems to be incredibly foolhardy behavior. For example, when one of their own is injured, nearby animals will crowd around it to "protect" it from further harm. Undoubtedly evolved to defend against four-legged predators and native hunters with bow, arrow, and lance, this behavior proved disastrous following the introduction of the buffalo rifles.

The old-time hunters put this knowledge to good use and would "build a stand" to slaughter many of the big shaggies in a small area, convenient for skinning. As a practical point for the modern buffalo hunter who only wants to cull one animal, it means that once wounded, you may have to wait until a clear shot presents itself for follow-up. (It also means the herd may not take kindly to your continued presence in the area – for which circumstance Lee carries a lever-action .45-70 as a backup gun). Once in position, Lee pointed out the bull I was to shoot. My pard obtained the range (224 yards) with a laser range-finder, and I waited until a clear shot presented itself. The other bulls immediately congregated around their injured comrade, and we waited several minutes until the other animals moved out of the line of fire, allowing a follow-up shot. That put him down for good, but it also brought his fellows back. We waited until the remainder of this group moseyed off before going down to examine the bull. The first shot had passed cleanly through, exiting near the juncture of the neck and body. The second shot had clipped the heart, and was recovered under a lump of skin on the animal's off-side. Lee and his son-in-law expertly skinned, caped, and quartered the bull where it fell. At the Hawes Ranch, the hunter retains the hide, the head, and all of the meat — only the carcass remains behind. Lee will also arrange for taxidermy and butcher service if you want (you pay separately for this). Check with your outfitter if you are contemplating a hunt, as some of them require the hunter to purchase the meat at additional cost.

The meat was delivered to the processor around 5pm on Wednesday and was available for pickup at noon on Friday. Since the hunt didn't end until Thursday afternoon, this gave us time after the hunt to get cleaned up and poke around Dodge for a half-day before heading to the processor, located about 35 minutes' drive from Dodge City. The processing costs ran 45¢ per pound of meat (493 lbs). I recommend you be specific regarding your druthers on the types and cuts of meat. Every meat processor I've ever dealt with cuts up the easy stuff into roasts and steaks, and grinds the remainder. This guy is no different. Mind you, he did a good job, but there was a lot more ground meat than I had planned on. And there's way too much there for you to conveniently bone it out yourself, like you might do with a deer.

Make sure you have a plan to get the meat home. Depending on what type vehicle you're driving, you might want to consider bringing a couple of coolers, or stop off in Dodge City for some dry ice prior to heading home. If you choose to use the meat processor, he will freeze your meat and pack it in semi-insulated paper sacks (think paper feed-sack and you'll get the idea), which will help a lot. We picked up ours late in the day and drove through the night, no problem (but also placed about half of it into ice chests). Bob and Gary drove all the way back to Virginia (no coolers) and reported some of their meat had thawed out on the way, but there was no spoilage.

Some additional tips:

Plan for cold, windy weather. You'll be on the Great Plains, where the wind is always blowing and usually gusting. Add to that the probability of seasonal cold weather, and the wind-chill can easily go well below zero. After all, there ain't nothing but one strand of barb-wire fence between Dodge City and Canada to stop the wind!

One caveat to the above: Two weeks before my hunt, the temperature was up in the 80-degree range. So maybe the best advice is to check the weather, but still be prepared for anything.

Don't sweat it too much if you haven't ridden a horse lately. You'll likely ride only 3-4 miles at most on any given day, and may ride less than that. On the day my bull was taken, the main herd (consisting of cows and yearlings) ran right past the edge of camp! (We were busy stalking the smaller bachelor group at the time).

Take enough film, or take a digital camera and an extra memory card. Don't be caught like one of our fellow hunters, who ran out of film just before the main herd ran past our camp.

Yes, there are teepees and dugouts available. But when that wind is blowing, your best bet is the dugout — trust me on this one!

Did I mention cold weather and wind? Remember, wool is your friend — bring plenty of it. One possibility is to purchase one of those full-length wool "Russkie" surplus coats that surplus stores and certain mail-order houses carry. Very warm, very cheap (around $20) and reasonably period-correct, if that's important to you.

Try not to crawl over any cactus while belly-crawling up to your shooting spot. (Trust the Faithful Indian Scout on this one!)

Bring along some extra ammo. You'll be expected to verify sight picture prior to the hunt (this also allows Lee to find out what kind of marksman he's dealing with), and you may wish to do some plinking on the last day after all the buffalo have been sent to the meat processing plant.

You have many choices between the various outfitters. When I was researching buffalo hunt outfitters, there were some who retained the meat (and sold it to you at additional charge); some where the hunter stayed in a hotel or bunkhouse and walked-in from the ranch gate, and there were a few who were more target-shoot than hunt. A fella from Iowa selling "bison hunts" said you could bring any firearm, and he would trailer the animal out into the pasture a ways for you to shoot. Not my idea of fun. Do your research early to get the experience you desire.

Buffalo hunting is not the toughest hunt in the world, but it can be a lot of fun. Just remember you are paying for much more than the meat and hide; you are buying an "experience." Figure out what experience you desire, do your research, and talk to the outfitter. This is the stuff from which memories are made!

THE ORIGINAL TRADERS JUBILEE

By Dog Eared Dan, SASS #42099

McGregor, Iowa Usually held in mid-to-late March, this year the Jubilee was the weekend of April 2-3, 2005. As it happened, this was also the weekend for the opening shoots at the Rock River Regulators on Saturday and the Kishwaukee Valley Regulators on Sunday. Since our last shoot of '04 I had major surgery and was not cleared to shoot a long gun or shotgun so, I hadn't practiced. Calamity hasn't shot due to job interference. I was finally cleared to shoot on March 28th, but if it rained, the new range in Beloit for the Regulators may not be passable. What to do? It was raining Friday afternoon as we crossed into Wisconsin on our way to one of the highlights of our year, the premier Cowboy social event in our area, "The Traders Jubilee" in McGregor, Iowa.

The River Junction Trading Company, so named due to the confluence of the Wisconsin and Mississippi Rivers across from McGregor, has been putting on the Jubilee for nine years, and we have been to four of them. The idea for a trading session or just a plain old get-together came about some 15 years ago and would include regular Junction customers of the Civil War crowd, to Rendezvous trappers, to Cowboys, to other reenactment groups from the area. The sessions finally outgrew the store in downtown McGregor, so a larger range was needed in which to roam. A ranch north of McGregor was chosen, and the event has been there ever since. We arrive late Friday afternoon and set up camp in Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin. This town has much rich early 19th century history and is also the site of a large rendezvous every year. After an early meal at the famous Kaber's Restaurant in Prairie, it's get yer duds on and head to the River Queen Saloon in McGregor for the "Early Bird Shopper and Dealer" thank you party. The owners and work staff of the saloon are dressed in proper period attire and a good time was had by all. The establishment fills up with all manner of cowboys, soiled doves, miners, and other assorted period folk. There is even a 'Constable' on patrol. Doug Strike, the real police chief of Iowa Falls, Iowa, is there dressed in correct 1890's attire. This year, his town is celebrating its sesquicentennial and is also where the Iowa State SASS Championship Shoot dinner is held.

The River Junction Trade Company buildings, like most of downtown McGregor, are restored, original 19th Century store fronts. Their main store is on the left and is set up like a general store from the 1800's, while the store on the right houses women's apparel and sale items.

Soon, Cottonwood Kate, SASS #32707, and family arrive. Her brother-in-law (or is that out-law?) Jim Balaya, SASS #63109, demands a pair of spoons from the bar and is now accompanying Joni Welda. This wonderful gal plays old-time fiddle like no one's business! She started out with Revolutionary War, then Civil War reenactors, and has now followed into the Cowboy group quite nicely. There are several familiar faces from the Iowa and Wisconsin SASS events. Why even Morgan Daniels, SASS #25180, ties up at the hitchin' post!

The next day dawns clear and bright ... no rain! For the first time at the Jubilee, as we know it, no mud! As the day unfolds, all sorts of folk arrive, more Cowboys than anything else, but there are some in wonderful Indian costumes, some townies, and some occasional riffraff. The Jubilee is held about six miles north of McGregor at Ashbacher's Scenic Ridge Exotic Animal Ranch/Barn/Dance Hall (quite a mouthful, but quite a place). The two-story barn has many permanent displays of antiques and over 100 tables for some 60 dealers. Food and spirits are available for those in need. The price of admission is a Lincoln note and is good for both days. With this admission fee, comes a ticket to the door prize drawing at 2 pm Sunday, and it's a dandy! River Junction donated a new Model '66 Sporting Rifle as the prize. Frontier Bill, SASS #10137, and Wisconsin Johnson, SASS #39573, two well-known area shootists are seen in attendance among the other familiar faces.

All sorts of truck could be had: leather goods, hides, beadwork, hats, guns, handmade knives, hand made clothes ... we talk and barter with some. The Leather Guy from Saint Charles, Minnesota has many hides for sale, and Calamity wanted to bring half a steer home. Cherl from Lone Wolf Artworks in Oelwein, Iowa had some nice pieces on display, and Sturgis Fails Black Powder Supply had all the smoke and sulphur you could want. Will Ghormley from Des Moines, maker of gunbelts, holsters, and leather gear had some good looking rigs. D.C. Rambow & Company is set up in the lower level. These folks do genuine, by golly tintype and glass photos using the original 1800's Collodian process. They were doing period correct images for these who wanted. Their large and interesting camera came from St. Petersburg, Russia, however, Dave Rambow hails from Pipestone, Minnesota.

During the day I talk with Jim Boeke, alias Big Joe Abernathy, SASS Life #5024, and how his wife Linda and several very knowledgeable hired hands take care of business at the River Junction stores. Their original store, set up and look-

TRAIL for 22 years since the very first time this world famous event was held, so he's no tenderfoot. He tells of folks coming to the Traders Jubilee some years from as far away as New York. Attendance has run as high as 1,000. This year's long distance traveler was Dakota Livesay from Arizona Territory, hawking his monthly rag, the Chronicle of the Old West. We have a nice jaw session with Sam Cody from The Great Plains Hat Company of Bellevue, Nebraska and wish him well on his future plans for a subject museum with original hats and hat making equipment from the 1850's period on. Mary Ann Parker out of Marion, Iowa, makes some dandy spur straps and other leather goods. I bought a pair to go with some spurs I picked up over the winter. At the Iowa State SASS shoot last year we met Kalamity Karen, set up here with a fine array of goods, mostly ladies apparel, but she will do men's clothing as well. Her shingle has her as a "Kustom Klothes Maker and Full Time Mule Skinner," and her hand made clothes are first rate. In fact, there were so many dealers, it was impossible to talk to all of them.

Saturday night the Old Rossville Store in Rossville, Iowa hosts a bang up shindig with a sit down meal, games of chance, and spirits of your choice. This 'Good Old Time Saturday Night Banquet' had many great items donated by the dealers at the Jubilee to be used as prizes for the winners in the poker and roulette games. Once banned in public, the French Can-Can' dance was performed by Mademoiselle Dakota Rose and her lovely ladies. As the night goes on, the Haw Creek Hayseeds provided music. Did I mention you could go heeled? Yup! At the River Junction Store, the Jubilee Barn, and the Rossville Store - as long as no ammunition, live, blank, or dummy, is in your belt or hog leg.

Over the summer, there are other Cowboy activities in the area such as Wild West Days at the Midway Village in Rockford, Illinois and Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show in Greenbush, Wisconsin. But for now, we have to wait a whole dadblasted year for the next Original and Now Famous, Traders Jubilee! 🤠

A POSTSCRIPT TO THE OH S#!* SYNDROME

By Deacon Will, SASS Life #24170

Since I wrote the article on the “OH S#!* Syndrome,” the premise of the article was clearly brought home to me recently. During our regular monthly match, I was summoned to Posse 2 where several shooters were gathered around the unloading table. The Posse leader had a serious look on his face and was bent over holding a revolver in one of his hands. Another shooter was examining the revolver as well. As I approached it was evident the revolver was missing its top strap, and a couple of cartridges were lying on the table along side it. The posse leader stated everyone was OK and no injuries occurred.

He explained the revolver had let go while the competitor was shooting his first round during the third stage scenario. No one was hurt or injured. The owner/operator of the revolver was wondering what had happened. We moved the revolver and ammo to a different table where we would not interfere with the shooting activities, and I summoned a gunsmith who was also shooting to have another set of eyes and ears on the subject.

The revolver was a Cimarron Single Action in otherwise great condition. The ammo was the owner’s reloads. He was using Tite Group with the factory recommended powder charge. He is normally a

The top strap was missing completely and searching did not find it. A piece of the cylinder was missing and subsequently found on the CABELA’S OUTING A HUGE SUCCESS!

By Tex, SASS #4

This past 4th of July Cat Ballou and I had the unique opportunity to participate in a “Cowboy Action Weekend” at Cabela’s Hamburg, PA store ... and store is a word that Cabela’s provided a “cowboy enclave” inside the store where Tex and Cat Ballou set up shop, met and chatted with SASS members and visitors, and sold every single SASS badge they brought to Pennsylvania. It was a fun two days ... SASS members are always interesting folks to be around. Cat is seen here making another “sale!”

doesn’t do the place justice! This facility and one other are the two largest Cabela’s retail stores in the country ... and it’s impressive! They obviously have sporting goods of every kind on display, but they also have the largest “Gun Library” and “Stuffed Game” rooms I’ve ever seen. All the pieces in both of these rooms are museum quality and truly impressive! This store also has a large aquarium with a broad range of fish of all sorts ... and feeding time is a sight to behold! The average time the live food remains alive is considerably less than one second!

The initial idea for Cabela’s

Cowboy Weekend came from local Cowboy Action Clubs interested in putting on a demonstration shoot (using blanks) in the parking lot to encourage more folks to join our game. Pennsylvania has a rich hunting and shooting heritage, so there are plenty of shooters there ... but most know nothing about Cowboy Action Shooting™. Cabela’s has cowboy guns, clothes, rigs, and boots, so they quickly showed interest as well. Cabela’s did an outstanding job advertising the event and made no secret Tex and Cat Ballou from SASS Headquarters would be available to sign trading cards and meet all the visitors ... and many SASS members and civilians took time to drop by!

The shooting demonstrations went well, always playing to large audiences and then answering questions as long as anyone was willing to ask. Running commentary during the demonstrations made the action come alive and understandable for the visitors. Cabela’s did well, selling cowboy guns and gear throughout the weekend. And, SASS did well. Nearly 40 new memberships were sold during the weekend, including eight the following weekend at the Blue Mountain Shoot-out in Topton!

SASS is very appreciative of Cabela’s and the initiative shown by the local Cowboy Action Clubs. New prospective members were exposed to Cowboy Action Shooting™, and many joined our ranks. Thanks to the Hamburg store’s Event Director, Phil O’ Boyle, for orchestrating the event, and to all the Cabela’s employees who took part, as well as all the support from the local Pennsylvania SASS members.

The cowboys treated the visitors to a Cowboy Action Shooting™ stage negotiated by multiple cowboys shooting in different SASS categories. Stage scenarios, gun descriptions, shooting styles, and a little bit of Western history all combined to keep everyone’s rapt attention! Pancho Gorsky, SASS #15051, who is also a Cabela’s Product Associate, explains the scenario to the spectators.

The Allen Richards family drove down from New York to take part in the Cabela’s “Cowboy Weekend.” The whole family joined SASS and showed up the next weekend in Topton, PA at the Blue Mountain Shoot-out. They received consecutive SASS badge numbers, 64603 – 64608 and registered as Hugh King, April Rose, Winter Rose, Jessie King, Ranglin’ Rooster, and Sassy Cricket. The family that plays together, stays together!

Every kind of sporting implement you can think of was on display here! At this time of year the fishermen were having a field day ... the lines in front of the multiple cash registers were active and dynamic all day. These folks do a lot of business!

I came across an interesting subject on the wire last month, "Start Position Faults and How They Relate to Procedural Penalties," and felt this should be covered in more depth as apparently it has been misunderstood and applied differently than intended. After reviewing the SASS Handbook and RO-I Materials, I can see where there really isn't enough written on this subject. We on the RO Committee need to ensure it is covered better in RO-I.

Start Positions vs. Staging Equipment

Where Do Procedural Penalties Apply?

By Quick Cal, SASS Life #2707, Regulator, and Chairman of RO Committee

The SASS Handbook (11th Edition), Page 34 says, "Failure to stage guns or ammunition at the designated position(s) is the fault of the competitor and scored as a procedure unless the competitor is able to correct the situation, unassisted, while in the process of completing the stage under the clock." Then, RO-I (Version F), page 5, under Section 5, Timer Operator, part F says, "The Timer Operator never starts a competitor in a faulted position. It is not considered a faulted position for allowing a shooter to start without appropriately loaded guns or available ammunition on their person." I understand why some people might think these are in conflict with one another, and why many more folks are just flat out confused on this subject.

I've researched the beginning of the Range Officer Program, starting with the Original Range Officer Course, written in mid-1999, and then recalled discussions held by the 1st RO Committee, which SASS tasked to write what is now RO-I, as taught at the 1st Territorial Governor Summit in late-1999. The original RO Committee did discuss this and came to the conclusion, Once the Timer Operator gives the competitor the start signal, they have "signed off" on their start position. This means if a stage calls for hands on hat and the RO forgets to impose this on the shooter, goes ahead and gives the start signal, no one can go back after the stage has been shot and access penalties for the shooter not having their hands on their hat. It was decided it is not the "Cowboy Way" to do this, and it can really become abused and subjective with many different degrees of not having hands high enough or flat enough on tables, etc. Somehow, this point has been overlooked in the massive effort of creating the SASS RO Program and associated materials.

What is covered is if a competitor comes to the line without correctly loaded firearms or ammunition not staged in appropriate positions, this is an area in which a procedural penalty can be assessed, and the Timer Operator is not signing off on those types of items. We needed to draw a line between the actual physical "start position" of the shooter while awaiting the start signal versus the actual "staging of the firearms and associated equipment." While it is true the Timer Operator should access the shooter's equipment and make every attempt to see that everything is staged appropriately, it is ultimately the shooter's responsibility to make certain they engage the stage as written. It should be clear if, for instance, a competitor is supposed to pull shotgun shells from a bucket during the course of fire and forgets to stage shotgun shells in the bucket, that understanding the stage is ultimately the responsibility of the competitor, and they can't blame the RO and demand a re-shoot. However, the rules allow for the competitor to correct the situation, unassisted (physically), while in the process of completing the stage under the clock. In other words, the RO can coach the shooter into correcting their mistake, by advising them to place their shotgun shells into the bucket from their belt and then pulling the shells from the bucket to complete the stage as written, while the timer is running. The only penalty would be the extra time it took the competitor to correct the problem under the clock, which is penalty enough. It also allows the RO to help, at least verbally, the shooter on the line correct a problem the RO should have caught, but just didn't. However, if the shooter chooses to not correct the mistake or the RO fails to coach the shooter's way out of the situation, then a procedural penalty is assessed, as the ultimate responsibility to shoot the stage as written still rests with the shooter.

The term "unassisted" as it relates to the above paragraph refers to something on the physical level of providing shotgun shells to someone who didn't bring enough shotgun shells to the line or physically moving a firearm that has been staged in the wrong position. The RO can certainly coach them as needed, which is one of the things I personally like the most about our sport.

The very essence of the attitude of the SASS Range Officer Program is to safely assist the shooter through the course of fire. It is supposed to be a pleasurable and worthwhile experience for both the competitor and the Range Officer. We strive to set parameters in which the line is drawn for who is responsible for what and not having muddy waters of confusion. That goes a long way towards keeping Cowboy Action Shooting™ the friendly sport it has become.

A POSTSCRIPT TO THE OH S#!* SYNDROME . . .

Another round appeared to be in good condition. As the pictures show, the cylinder was forcefully blown apart causing the broken edges to be curled outward. A portion of the cylinder was not found, as it had been blown into three pieces.

What caused this incident? We will probably never know for certain. If the round was over charged, the revolver may have had to withstand a pressure spike of almost twice what a full house .44 Magnum would generate. The design of the single action cylinder and its thin walls would never have been able to begin to withstand this explosive event in my humble opinion. Tite Group is supposed to be a great powder when powder position in the case can be critical to performance and safety. The barrel was free of any obstructions after the incident. The owner stated he was not using "light loads" but what the reloading manual called for. Could he have placed two bullets in the case? Was it the result of inattention in crafting the reloads (human error), manufacturer's defect in the firearm, faulty equipment, or faulty components? In a later conversation with the shooter's wife, she stated he checked his ammo when he returned home and found NO defective rounds. A subsequent email from him confirmed the remaining powder charges were within specs.

His email stated, "Now I weighed these in our lab at work here on [location deleted] with the help of my chemist just so I wouldn't have doubts about the weights."

The revolver has been examined by the dealer/gunsmith who sold it to him it four months ago and has been returned to the manufacturer for scrutiny.

Safety procedures were in place at the match. That day, we had a record number of shooters at our match and a large crowd of spectators. Our range rules require everyone on the range must have eye and ear protection in place at all times, whether they are shooting or not. This includes spectators as well as competitors.

The shooter borrowed another pistol and ammo and finished the match without incident. We start each match with a Pledge to the Flag and a short prayer of thanks and asking for safety during our match. I believe our prayer was answered.

Everyone is a SAFETY OFFICER at our matches. If an unsafe action is about to take place, it is the duty of anyone seeing it to stop it ASAP. That squib round ... did the bullet leave the barrel or is it stuck in the barrel? Bulged rifle barrels are not just ugly, they are a safety issue. RO's should be focused on the shooter and his actions, not on counting misses. Complacency can be the biggest factor in whether our sport remains as safe as it has become. An RO can become tired and lose focus during a match. Relief should be established to keep the senses sharp and fresh.

Remember ... don't get ticked off if someone notices you about to do something unsafe and stops you. Thank them and don't take it personally. Have fun... safely!

GUNS & GEAR

Holy Terror, SASS #15362

One reason shooting is so popular is because it is not gender specific. Both men and women of all ages can compete. Sometimes, however, the equipment needs to be adjusted so it fits each person specifically in order to allow them to compete at their best.

One thing that often needs adjustment is the size and weight of the equipment. Many women are relatively small so their equipment needs to be sized appropriately.

Most pistols can be handled by everyone regardless of their hand size. The three main pistols used in Cowboy Action Shooting™ are Rugers, Colts, and Colt clones. Rugers tend to be heavier than Colts and Colt clones. Whenever a very light revolver is needed, a small frame Ruger in .32 caliber is a good choice.

Pistol barrel length is also an important issue. There isn't much difference between a 5-1/2" and a 4-3/4" barrel revolver. They handle about the same. However, a 7 1/2" barrel revolver is heavier, and can be too cumbersome for some people to handle.

For most women, I recommend a small pistol caliber, either a .38/.357 or a .32. You don't need really heavy loads. Keeping the load down will make it easier to hold onto the gun because it produces less recoil. However, there is such a thing as too light a load. The load should be heavy enough that when you hit a target, it makes some noise and the load is consistent. It should also reliably take down any knockdown targets.

Another thing you can do to make revolvers easier to shoot is to change the grips. Many pistols come with a bell shaped grip that gets thicker towards the bottom. This makes it difficult to get all your fingers securely around the gun. There are several different kinds of thin grips that will solve with this problem. Most people can handle a small caliber pistol with a thinner grip, although there are some unique individuals that require birds head grips. These can be especially nice for those who have unusually small hands.

Many women have trouble with their rifle's weight. When I first started shooting, I had to prop mine on the back of a chair. However, there are several options to solve this problem.

Barrel and stock lengths greatly affect a rifle's weight. There is no need for a long barrel in our sport. I recommend having a barrel length between 18-1/2" and 20". Your barrel only needs to be long enough to fit 10 rounds in the magazine tube.

A round barrel is the lightest barrel. However, some people find it is too light and moves around too much. An octagon barrel is heavier, and its weight can be "tuned" by your friendly gunsmith grinding off a little metal underneath the magazine tube.

Stock length and configuration affects a rifle's weight. On a Winchester model 1873, a pistol grip stock weighs more than a straight stock. If you are concerned about weight, this is another thing you will want to consider. Also, if your stock is not the correct length, it will be uncomfortable to shoulder the gun, and it will make the gun feel heavier than it actually is. For more on stock length see Women, Guns, and Gear in the April '05 Cowboy Chronicle.

In the rifle, caliber is also important. There is no reason to run an exceptionally heavy load in this gun. Again, I recommend a round in .38/.357.

Many companies have a short, light rifle appropriate for people of small stature. For the Winchester 1873, there is a carbine style rifle that has a round, short barrel. If you are interested in the Marlin style rifle, the CS Marlin also has a short, round barrel. Look around and talk to other women competitors before buying.

Along with the rifle, many women have issues with the shotgun. The shotgun can be a struggle even for the strongest folks.

For shotguns, there are two main types: the double and the 1897 style shotgun. They are pretty much equal regarding difficulty of handling, and you really can't go wrong with either one on weight. The double barrel can be slightly harder to handle, especially if it has exposed hammers. Either gun can be a good choice.

Shortening the barrel and the stock is the way to go when lightening a shotgun. There is no reason your shotgun should have a barrel longer than 20". By keeping the barrel short, it is easier to hold the gun up as well as maneuver it. The stock also should be kept short. This will make it easier to shoulder as well as more comfortable to shoot.

Along with keeping the shotgun light, it is always a good idea to keep your loads light. No one needs heavy loads. They make the gun harder to control and harder to shoot, and cause more bruising! In my experience, a feather light 12 gauge usually has lighter recoil than a 20 gauge. It is not necessary to buy a 20-gauge shotgun. Instead, buy lighter loads for the 12 gauge.

Another thing that can get heavy is your gun cart. I have seen some people pull monsters around. I often wonder if they rent them out as apartments during the week! With as much walking as we do, and as much stuff as we haul around, less really is more in this case. You want a gun cart you can move comfortably, that has something to sit on, and can hold all of your shooting gear. If it doubles as a suitcase, it's too much.

Cowboy Action Shooting™ is a wonderfully unique and diverse sport. Remember to take all I have said with a grain of salt. If you want to shoot the longest barrel 1897 you can find, that's great. People shoot this sport for a variety of reasons. I wish you all comfortable shooting!

GUNS & GEAR

Purdy Gear, SASS #33315

It always seems whenever you get three leatherworkers together you all of a sudden get five opinions: how something should be built, what it should be made of, etc., etc., etc. Having said that, I'll also say there seems to be one notable exception. Most all universally admit they really don't like making buscadero rigs. Why is that? Well, mostly 'cause they're fiddly and a whole lot more work than a standard straight-

THE CUSTOM DOUBLE BUSCADERO RIG

By Purdy Gear, SASS #33315

cut rig. Now, we're not talking about commercially available rigs here. This is about a custom-built rig with the belt and holsters specifically tailored to your personal pelt. I'll be mentioning some of the differences between them, but what I'm not going to do is cast aspersions on one type or another. The intent of this article is to make you aware of some of the differences between the two and why the prices sometimes vary dramatically between custom and commercial rigs that look virtually identical.

Fit: The biggest reason why folks want custom rigs is because commercial rigs don't fit them corectly. On a double rig, that means the drops don't fall where you need them to be for a comfortable or sensible draw. The reason for this is commercial builders do their best to fit the average "off-the-rack" body type. Unfortunately, many of us are not blessed with that kind of body. When a custom rig is built, the critical measurements for the buscadero are:

1: the hip size with very serious consideration given to hip structure. Skinny guys with no hips need a different contour to the belt than a fellow or gal with wider hips.

2: the distance of center of body to center of drops. This measurement is critical to the function of the rig and is dependant on body size as well as shooting style (where you stage your guns). On a double rig, the belt buckle, drops, and cartridge loops all have to fall centered for the rig to look and function correctly.

So what's involved in tailoring a rig? Close fitting is essential. One single measurement at the hips is inadequate. Some form of pattern is critical. The curve or contour of the hip must be worked into the pattern so the belt sits comfortably and smoothly on the body. Placement and length of the drops must be added as well as size of buckle, number and placement of cartridge loops, and placement of any spots or conchos. Plain or stamped belts follow easily from here. Carved belts take much more intensive work. Remember, all the measurements are different from individual to individual; so carved patterns must be choreographed to flow smoothly into the drops and around billets, cartridge loops, spots, and conchos. This translates to a tremendous amount of time the maker must add into his or her schedule.

Cutting the Belt: When a maker cuts the standard straightcut belt, the first cut on a side of leather is always a straightening or squaring cut. A strap cutter is then used to make all further belt cuts by following the original straight line. This is efficient, very fast, and gives excellent cutting yield with very little waste.

The buscadero belt, on the other hand, really messes time, cutting yield, and scrap management up completely. Custom buscadero belts must be cut by hand. That's slower than a strap cutter by far.

Because of the drops and the traditional curving of this belt type, a buscadero belt just flat eats up a side of leather. A buscadero will use up four or more times the leather needed for a straight belt. The scrap generated from cutting the buscadero is generally of a shape, size, or weight that might not be immediately useful to the maker. Furthermore, if straight belts must be cut after the buscadero, the hide must be straightened again, taking up more time and leather. Small shops and specialty shops really take a hit on this, as they cut limited numbers of pieces. That means they need to get as much as they can out of a side without having to store or inventory a lot of scrap. Remember, small custom shops cut orders rather than inventory, so they must very carefully manage cutting.

Production shops have regular inventory runs. They cut the buscaderos, and then the scrap is immediately moved over to be cut into other smaller items, which they again inventory. The small shop may or may not have orders for smaller items. If not, they're stuck with the remnants and that costs storage space, time, and money. Many makers won't make buscadero belts specifically for this reason.

Cartridge Loops: A buscadero belt is generally cut on a curve. As a result, the loops must follow that curve and yet still fit the cartridges. Depending on the degree of curvature, this can be a real aggravation.

Waiting Time: The best of the small makers are always behind on their work. That means the pattern fitted today may not fit when the time comes to make the rig. Customers who lose or gain weight at the drop of a hat are generally given dire warnings about radical weight changes. You see, on a double rig, the drops fix the holsters in place and the buckle must be centered for the rig to look right. If you lose weight, your guns will drift forward. If you gain, they'll drift rearward. That will change your draw position – radically if you gain or lose a lot of weight.

So how is it all those Hollywood guys had perfectly fitting buscadero rigs? Simple. It was Hollywood. Most stars were very conscious of screen appearance and maintained their weight. If they didn't, the studios got them new rigs. Fresh rigs were always on order somewhere anyway because, heaven forbid, the star should look the teensiest bit shabby. Most SASS members don't have those facilities or funds at hand. Hence, dire warnings about weight!

Can buscadero rigs be shortened or lengthened? Yeah ... Sorta. But there are always issues. The drops are never in the right place afterwards. To make everything fall as it should usually gets pretty nightmarish and often works out financially to being almost as expensive as a new belt. Besides, a modified belt just never looks as classy after the modification is complete.

Compadres, there is just about no keener-looking rig than a well-fitted and finely made custom double buscadero rig. However, there's a whole lot more to building them than meets the eye. I hope I've brought some of those considerations forward here. Next time you ask a maker about this sort of rig and they give you a price that makes you scream, well ... at least you'll know why.

I'll see all you hombres on down the trail! As usual if you have comments or gripes, gimme a holler at the usual places: 706-692-5536 or purdygear@alltel.net. J.

SUBMITTING YOUR PHOTOS TO COWBOY ACTION SHOOTING™
PUBLICATIONS

By Rev. Alkali Al, SASS #53645, of the Mr. Quigley Photography Team

This is a follow-up to the article last month about submitting stories for publication to either of the two major Cowboy Action Shooting™ publications, The Cowboy Chronicle or SHOOT! Magazine.

As Rev. Alkali Al, SASS #53645, I am part of the Mr. Quigley Photography team. I've been involved in photography for many years (even back in the old days when we rolled and developed our own film to save money), and I have a degree in photojournalism. As important or exciting as this may sound, it doesn't mean a thing if you can't get that right someone to take a second peek at your pictures. So, let's look at a few simple steps that can help you get that second peek.

The good news is everyone likes to look at pictures. The bad news is an editor doesn't have as much time to look over your pictures as say your Aunt Ethel has. So, it is important to make something stand out and grab the editor. You can do that in several different ways, but the MOST IMPORTANT thing to remember is the main subject part of the picture, what you want people to really see, has to be in sharp focus. Ninety-nine point nine percent of the time a picture with the slightest bit of focus problem won't even get a first look, just a glance. That point one percent of the time will usually be an emergency move due to need, deadlines, and the fact that someone had a vague recollection there was a blurry picture around somewhere they had glanced at earlier. Rule of

This horse was reaching powerfully into the air trying to run faster. I waited for the large animal to leap, hoping the rider would shoot at the same time and with my luck she did. Sometimes those lucky shots just happen, but you need to be ready for them as I was. This is the kind of image that should get an editor to take a look at your story and photos!

thumb: if the picture isn't sharp, don't waste the editor's time.

That having been said, it is probably worth the time to clarify the difference between a blurry picture and a 'selective focus' picture. A blurry picture explains itself. It is all over blurry and out of focus for whatever reason. A 'selective focus' picture has part of the picture blurry, to one degree or another, on purpose but definitely has a sharp focus on the main subject. This adds zip and makes the main subject stand out and demand attention. If the main subject is in focus, then the picture is in focus, even if the background isn't.

Now, the object here is to submit pictures the editor will look at. In b.d. (before digital) days most pictures were submitted either as 8x10 black/white prints or as color slides. Color was generally limited to cover photos. Now, with the digital revolution and advancement in color printing, color has pretty much become the norm and B/W is considered artsy. But, that can work to your advantage.

Okay, you have some pictures you want to submit to The Cowboy Chronicle or SHOOT! Magazine. The first step is to check the publication and see what they suggest for submitting photos. For instance SHOOT! Magazine prefers digital files, 5 MP or more sized at 300 DPI or high quality transparencies (slides) or very good quality prints. The Cowboy Chronicle also accepts the same, but your digital files can be sized down to 200 DPI. When in doubt or special circumstances, contact them and ask.

One reason for wanting to see prints is because it is less time consuming than waiting on a computer to put up the next image on the screen. A print in hand never locks up nor does it have to be rebooted. Besides, the editor can take prints with him/her to lunch or look at them on the run if need be. Remember a couple of paragraphs ago when I mentioned color becoming the norm and B/W artsy and that could be used to your advantage? Well, when you send in your photos, put a really good, sharp b/w photo in the stack to grab attention. We get so used to looking at color photos these days that a b/w often gets more attention. Also, remember in the digital photography world your color images can be easily converted to B&W by the publication.

Label and number your prints using that identification on the accompanying information (caption) page for your articles. Here is a tip - Tex at the Chronicle strongly prefers this. Photos often become separated from their text in the production process, so identifying the photos on the info page is extremely helpful. Each photo on the info page must contain enough information so the reader will be able to understand at what he/she is looking.

If your "negatives" are digital files, it might also be helpful to send a disk with copies of those files. If you do send your digital "negatives," make sure they are either .JPG, .TIF or .EPS format. JPG is usually preferred by most. It is best to find out beforehand from the publication which format they prefer. If you send a disk, also enclose thumbnail prints of all the pictures with picture id printed so editors can quickly find the right photo if they use your disk. You can also email your articles and photos to editors, but do so only with their prior permission. Some publications will provide you with an email address of FTP site to send only photos to. Again, check to be sure.

Just a couple of final reminders: move in close to your subject to avoid background distractions (pose the shot if you have to in order to get exactly what you want), watch for shadows (cowboy hats have wide brims and lots of cowhands like to tip their hats low over their face), move the hat farther back on the head or use a fill-in flash to avoid those shadows, turn the subject facing into the

Capt. George Baylor,
SASS #24287

Contrary to popular belief, loading percussion or cap and ball revolvers is not difficult. But, it can be a handful trying to hold the revolver upright and put powder, wad, and ball in five chambers, preferably the same five chambers. For some time I've used a loading stand. That helps, but popping out the cylinder and using a cylinder loading stand has always seemed to be the quickest and possibly safest. At matches the guy shooting Frontierman has his hands full getting the revolvers recharged between stages. Usually he monitors the unloading table because, theoretically, he can recharge his pistols and monitor each shooter.

Most of the time that's true. But then people talk to you, and you forget where you stopped. This is how you get wad and ball in a chamber, but no powder. Oops. So successful Frontiersmen get VERY obsessive/compulsive about it, developing a ritual to make sure things are done right.

Additionally, Ruger Old Armies have a problem for Cowboy Action Shooting™. They're designed to compress a full charge of powder. The chamber will hold a Walker-like 50 gr.

As a dowel marks the last chamber with powder in it, a measured charge is inserted in the next chamber.

if loaded level full. Pop that off, and the smoke cloud looks like Gettysburg, the flame from the barrel singes the target, and the boom sets off car alarms in the parking lot.

Trust me on this: if you need a 50 gr. charge for SASS, something is wrong.

If the charge is less than 30-35 gr., the stock rammer won't go down far enough to give adequate seating pressure. Thus to shoot less than 30 gr., you have to do one of three things:

1. Double ram — seat the ball as deep as the rammer will go, then put a .357, 158 gr. rnl bullet between the ball and the rammer, and ram again, seating the ball down to the powder level.

2. Insert either a thick wad or a filler between the powder and the ball. (This is the method to choose if pinpoint accuracy is needed because it moves the ball nearer the forcing cone.)

3. Have the rammers extended or made adjustable.

The first solution adds time to your recharging. The second does that and adds the possibility of failing to insert powder. The third costs money. 20 gr. is probably close to the practical minimum for BP and most substitutes, but 15 gr. of 777 fffg, due to its extra power, is sufficient for SASS, plenty of smoke and knock-down. Warhogs might disagree, but there it is.

The solution to a lot of these problems is to use a cylinder loader. Then you just pull the cylinder, giving you a good chance to quickly and easily wipe it down and wipe down the frame and base pin between stages. Put the cylinder in the loader where you can see the charges easily, and develop a procedure that guarantees all the components will go in the right chambers in the right order.

The problem has been the available cylinder loaders haven't been of high quality and easily adjustable to all the guns used. I got one and, after filing out a too-short slot enough to actually use it in a Ruger, tried it and found I didn't have the leverage to force the balls into the chamber.

Then Wally Wenzel of Goex sent me a working prototype of the Powder, Inc. Cylinder Loader. It's made of high quality stainless steel, and it comes with a selection of cylinder pins and jags to handle everything from a .32 to a .45 Ruger Old Army.

This one came adjusted and set up for the Ruger.

At the first range session, a match, I used it and decided I'd never go back after doing one cylinder. The time involved in loading a cylinder is about half that on a stand or a third of using no aids at all, just standing the pistol on the bench. You can look down all the chambers and see powder (or insert a dowel in low visibility). Then you add wads if used, seat them, then put the balls on and seat them. You're done. Put the cylinder back in the gun.

It's high quality. If you have a harder than usual ball, it has no problem seating it. I'm using up a batch I got two years ago from a company that used too much tin in their alloy. I used it in multiple matches with no problems. Then I used it in doing Ransom Rest testing and decided to use my 7.5" Ruger Old Armies instead of the 5.5" models I had been shooting in matches. One cylinder would not go over the cylinder pin at all, and the other fit so tightly it was very difficult to remove. The 5.5" Ruger Old Armies had no problem. I notified the folks at Powder Inc. that taking off a few thousandths on production ones might be a good idea.

Yes, at $54.95, it's a lot more expensive than others on the market. But, it works much better. Sometimes you do get what you pay for! A

GUNS & GEAR

~ MY GUN CART ~

By Matthew (Matt) Duncan, SASS #23189

I was going to build my cart. Checked websites for ideas and ran across Cal-graf. For what they were asking for their basic cart I couldn't purchase the material, so I bought it! Thought I'd use it a couple of years, make modifications, and then I'd have a prototype to build my own. Here is what I bought: <http://www.cal-graf.com/simple.htm>

Well, the creative juices started flowing. Most cowpokes carts are brown, and I wanted something that stood out. Watching a western, I noticed that the stagecoach was painted red with yellow trim. Wonderful idea! Took the gun cart apart, opened a can of red paint, and started.

Then I laid out the pin stripping using a straight edge and a plastic lid from the wife's kitchen. Yellow paint with an unsteady hand and that's done. Looks pretty good if you stand back ... a little farther.

Now I am saving up to replace the chrome wheels with wooden ones. Paint them yellow, and I'm all done!

My pretty red guncart – but still needed more embellishments.

Still looked plain. So I purchased a calf hide from Tandy Leather and some brass tacks.

I eliminated the thin Woodstock that holds the barrels in place with leather ties. Had a bunch of brass tacks left so I used them up.

Still had some hide left, so I used some contact cement and glued a piece inside the top lid. Gives me a soft place to work on my pistols.

DECEMBER 1 - 4, 2005

The SASS Convention

The 4th Annual SASS Convention and Wild West Christmas returns to the Riviera Hotel and Convention Center in Las Vegas, December 1-4, 2005. Presented by the Single Action Shooting Society whose 65,000 members have created a cottage industry based on the American Old West lifestyle, the SASS Convention brings together all that is Old West Cowboy and is presented to showcase the products, events and related industries pertaining to this icon of American Western Culture that is SASS and Cowboy Action Shooting.

Convention & Exhibitors

Liken it to a mini Shot Show. It's a convention with exhibitors in a fifty-thousand square foot convention hall teeming with aficionados of the sport and lifestyle. There you will find manufacturers and their products on display. Vendors of everything that is Cowboy Action Shooting and Old West are open for business and clubs from around the country and around the world have displays touting their activities and annual matches for the following year.

Seminars & Entertainment

In addition to the exhibition hall, the convention provides a daily schedule of educational seminars, guest speakers and entertainment. Seminars are conducted by experts in the various areas of the sport and many of the most recognized competitors in the game. From gunsmiths to leather makers and reloading professionals to clothing designers, the SASS Convention has it all.

Social Events

The social calendar of the Convention has set standards in the world of SASS. Starting on Wednesday evening, special receptions and functions are planned in the SASS Hospitality Sky Box. Each night a no-host bar is provided and special guests are invited to mix, perform and say a few words. SASS members and Convention Exhibitors are invited to gather for cocktails and hors-d'oeuvres. The private reception rooms overlook the convention floor and provide a perfect place for members and exhibitors to mingle after the convention hall closes for the evening.

Classic Cowboy Saloon Dance

The Thursday night Classic Cowboy Barn Dance adds a rousing yet casual opportunity for Cowboys and girls to cut loose and dance, mingle and socialize with the best dressed B-Western and Classic Cowboys in the country. Wear your Woolies and strut yer stuff as Syd Masters and the Swing Riders whip up traditional Cowboy swing music.

Yesteryear Masquerade Ball

The Yesteryear Ball is the SASS social event of the year. The theme for this year is Masquerade and Conventioneers are encouraged to take on a new persona in the spirit of Masquerade Balls of the Old West and Victorian era. The Ball takes place on Saturday evening in the Grande Ball Room. The evening begins with a cocktail reception in the Grande. This is a formal event and perfect time to break out your finest clothing and accouterments.

Costume Contest & Wooly Awards

Judging for the formal Costume Contest takes place prior to the cocktail reception and the winners are presented later that evening at the Ball. The evening includes a complete dinner, no-host bar and a photo gallery to get your picture taken. Victorian dancing highlights the evening and the annual Best of The Year Wooly Awards for Club, Territorial Governor, Annual Match, New Product, Merchant and Media (TV or Movie) are presented.

An Evening With Sandra S. Froman

The Single Action Shooting Society is proud to announce Sandra S. Froman, President of the National Rifle Association will be the featured guest speaker for the 2005 SASS Convention Evening with series which takes place Friday, December 2 from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. in the SASS Skybox Suite at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas. An Evening with Sandra S. Froman is designed to give folks an opportunity to meet and ask questions of individuals of significant importance to SASS, Cowboy Action Shooting and the firearms community and is open to all registered Convention participants.

Las Vegas

Las Vegas is the perfect place to hold the SASS Convention. In addition to all the activities offered by the SASS Convention, there's Las Vegas with all the entertainment, restaurants and activity just outside the Convention doors. There's also the Cowboy Christmas and Country Christmas shopping shows at the Las Vegas Convention Center (walking distance from the Riviera) and Sands Convention Center. One can do a complete Christmas shopping stop and have it shipped home by the Riviera shipping facility. The town really has a Western flavor this time of the year. Cowboy hats abound as the PRCA National Final Rodeo is in town and tens-of-thousands of cow-folk from all over the country, fill the city.

SASS Business

The convention is also the place where official SASS business takes place. The Territorial Governor Summit will occupy several of the meeting rooms that are part of the Convention Center. SASS also conducts meeting with directors from the SASS Regionals and State Championships to further enhance SASS national shooting program.

YOU'RE NOT A KID ANYMORE, BUT A HENRY RIFLE WILL MAKE YOU FEEL LIKE ONE.

Ever think back to the days when you were a kid and life was a whole lot simpler? But growing up has its perks, and owning a great rifle from Henry Repeating is definitely one of them.

For absolute reliability and maximum control, nothing beats the time-tested, flawless function of a Henry lever.

Since our earliest days, our objective has been to manufacture a line of classic, superbly crafted firearms that every American shooting enthusiast would find readily affordable.

Every part in a Henry is made in America. Every rifle is engineered with features that many of our competitors often charge twice the price for. Our corporate motto is "Made in America and priced right." Those are the words our skilled employees live by.

We are a family owned business and we stand behind every rifle that leaves our plant. Our customer service is second to none, and we will do everything to insure your complete satisfaction.

Order our free color catalog featuring our entire line of Henry lever, bolt-action and semi-auto rifles by calling, writing or visiting our website.

Let a Henry rifle work its magic to make you feel a way you probably haven't felt in a long, long time. Like a kid.

CONVERT YOUR HENRY TO A TRANSITIONAL MODEL IN 66 EASY STEPS

By One-Ear Pete, SASS #34800

1860

In the beginning, there was the Volcanic rifle. Tyler Henry redesigned that lever action rifle to take a .44 rimfire cartridge, and Oliver Winchester saw it and declared it good ... but not perfect.

In 1865, Nelson King was hired as the foreman of the Henry Repeating Rifle Company. Winchester assigned him the task of solving the problems associated with the original Henry design ... the awkward loading method and an open magazine that was easily fouled with dirt. To solve these problems, King designed the side-loading gate, made a separate barrel and magazine assembly, and added a wooden forestock. Thus, the Winchester Model 1866 “Yellow Boy” was born. During that time the company was renamed the Winchester Repeating Arms Company.

But, that’s not the whole story.

To work out the design problems, King went out to the factory floor, grabbed some receivers and barrels from the production line, and made some Transitional Henrys. It appears at least five were made and, from photos of these rifles, one can see the various design solutions develop from one rifle to the next. Needless to say, they are rare. In 2003, Merz Antique Firearms listed example, during the winter of 2003/2004 he acquired three Evan’s Repeating Rifles and with more than a little brainwork, elbow grease, and some trial and error, he got them up and running for the 2004 season.

This entailed not only getting the rifles to function, but also developing and making cartridges that would feed in the unique Evan's magazine. Shell cases were fire formed to size and trimmed, the bases made convex on a lathe, and bullet heads turned down to seat them in the case. Hap, as he is known, is as interested in style points as well as shooting fast, and at a match, one always needs to check out what little treasures he has pulled from his safes.

So, how'd Hap do it?

Well, how did King do it? What problems did King encounter and how did he overcome them? For Happy Trails, those are the questions and the intriguing challenges. Examples of the Transitional Model available for view online show rifles in various stages of development. So, even for King, it was trial and error until he got what he wanted.

The reverse engineering was probably easier than coming up with the original designs, but even working from an existing '66 offered challenges to overcome. Hap found a nice used Uberty Henry in .44-40 and, using his '66 as a guide, worked out the location and dimensions of the loading gate, built the necessary jigs, and milled out the side plate using equipment similar to what would have been available to King at the time.

Next was construction of the loading gate cover in spring steel. The original loading gates were flat without a concave grove to facilitate loading, so it was simple enough to design and cut out the correct size and then send it out for heat-treating. To rework the carrier and frame, Hap used the carrier from his '66 to determine the correct angles and dimensions to cut the pass-through slot for the cartridges being loaded. A jig was made to hold the piece, and it was a simple process to mill out the carrier and frame. After some hand finishing, de-burring, and smoothing the various pieces, it was time to assemble the receiver. Easier said than done as Henry side plates are constructed with dovetailed joints and, with the loading gate in place, one can't slide the plate into position. Adding the gate after installing the side plate was the solution.

Altering the follower seemed simple, but with the follower handle removed, the follower would continue on into the receiver. A new follower with a stop had to be designed, and then it was time to figure out how to close in the magazine. That solution was to bevel the underside of the magazine slot so a thin piece of bar stock with mating dovetailed grooves could be slid into position. Bluing of the magazine cover was the final and easiest step. From start to finish this project took about 20 hours to complete.

Unless Happy Trails comes across one of the original Transitional Henrys, he will never know if his design solutions were the same as King's, but Hap's Transitional Henry shoots like a dream and racks up more of them style points when he is out playing cowboy.

GUNS & GEAR

IDEAS FROM THE RELOADING ROOM

By Cheyenne Ranger, SASS Life #48747

I love my Dillon Square Deal “B”. In fact, I got my first one so long ago it cost all of $125 and was simply called the Square Deal (no “B” model yet). But, if I had to change one thing about the Dillon reloaders, it would be the ease, or lack thereof, of removing the locator buttons that keep the cases in the shell plate. Different calibers require different diameter buttons. Problem is my fat fingers can’t get hold of any them, or I get them part way out and drop them. I’ve tried needle-nosed pliers and forceps, but they just don’t do the job well enough for me. Since they are brass, I can’t use a magnet to pull them out either. I needed something that was easy to use and positive in holding on to the buttons.

Dillon had come out with small blue (naturally) tabs that went under these buttons. These tabs were easy to grasp, but their thickness caused the buttons to ride up a bit in their holes and the cases would come partway out causing bent cases and jamming the operation. Nice try, but no cigar.

Then I ran across some rare earth magnets that are used in another one of my hobbies, radio control airplanes. These are very powerful and if you haven’t seen them in action you really can’t appreciate how strong they really are. If you are not careful, they’ll pull the nails out of your house J.

It was a simple matter to JB Weld them to the tops of the buttons. After giving them overnight to harden, I now use a small screwdriver to pick them out of their holes. To replace them, I use the screwdriver to put them back in their holes and slide the screwdriver off the button. The hole keeps the button from moving, and once the screwdriver is gone, the button drops right down in its hole.

You do have to watch them as the JB Weld begins to harden. Since the JB Weld has some steel in it, the magnets have a tendency to move a bit on the top of the buttons. For the large buttons (small calibers) this isn’t a problem, but the ones I bought had the same diameter as the .45 Colt locator button.

The name of these rare earth magnets is Neodymium-Iron-Boron (NdFeB) ‘super’ magnets that can be found at the Forcefield website. The link to the page is: http://www.wondermagnets.com/cgi-bin/edatcat/WMSstore.pl?user_action=list&category=Magnets_and_Magnetism%3BPermanent_Magnets%3BNeodymium&start=30

Yep, the above three lines is the entire link. The ones I got are #0058 NdFeB Disc, 1/4” x 1/16” thick. They cost 15¢ each in lots of 100, that’s around $20 with shipping.

BUT WAIT! Ran into a problem—when I raised the ram, they stuck to the top of the press frame. Something up there (dies?) is ferrous metal. This would not do, so back to the drawing board L.

I then decided to glue small nuts (as in nuts and bolts) to the locator

Dillon's tab on left, regular locator button on right

locator buttons with magnets glued on

Buttons w/ washers

Magnets inside brass buttons. Now the magnet would be on a stick and I would pick them up in the same manner.

BUT NO! The nuts were too thick and they kept the ram from going to top dead center. The magnet on a stick would pick them up, so that problem was solved, but now I had a new one.

Finally I glued small washers on the locator buttons. There is clearance for the ram to go all the way to the top and I can get the buttons out by using the magnet.

I did put four of them in rectangular pieces of brass so they would look a might better. And I made three instead on just one (you know how I am: Now where did I put my rifle?)

So after 18 gallons of JB Weld and a mess that would make a pig proud, I now can easily remove and reinstall my Dillon locator buttons. And all it took was 10 days and a bit (little bit) of brainpower. Life is back to being good!

Dillon Precision Products, Inc. – Manufacturers of the World's Finest Reloading Equipment. A bold statement? Perhaps, but as they say, "It ain't braggin' when you can back it up." Ask the top shooters in all the action-shooting sports. They'll tell you that Dillon equipment is the best way to load mass quantities of match-quality (i.e. reliable and accurate) ammo with a minimal expenditure of valuable practice time. So, if you'd rather spend your time shooting than loading (or messing with your finicky, unreliable "Brand-X" reloader), it's time to get serious about the reloader you use. The bottom line? You can't do better than Dillon.

THE 1st ANNUAL MOUNTED INVITATIONAL

By Cinnamon Lucy, SASS #14014

Edgewood, NM The sound of pounding hooves once again echoed across the rolling hills of Founders Ranch. Mounted Shooters gathered at the arena from across the country to compete in the annual Founders Ranch Invitational Mounted Shoot. Excitement was the order of the day as Mounted Shooters warmed up their four legged pards in the arena to compete in America's fastest growing sport, Cowboy Mounted Shooting!

The first day of competition on Saturday was full of anticipation. Competitors from all divisions were ready to match their skills against the field of fire. There were no balloon setters for this event, so everyone pitched in and helped blow up and set balloons either on horseback or on foot. Even spectators and Action Shooters helped out. It was a great team effort! There were four stages set for Saturday, each more challenging than the previous. There was hardly a balloon left standing as each Cowgirl and Cowboy maneuvered their trusty steed through the course of fire! Nuevo Mike and Chief the Wonder Horse also added suspense and excitement as this great team showed how Cart Shooting can be part of Mounted Shooting. They were a real crowd pleaser and brought cheers from many!

Saturday night gave the Mounted Shooters a chance to relax and enjoy the Mariachi band and free margaritas. Some of the Mounted Shooters seemed to enjoy the party a little too much. The end of the evening brought on a spectacular display by Mother Nature. A very large thunderstorm moved through the valley, producing a variety of lightening flashes and a torrent of rain. Sunday morning dawned bright and clear for the completion of the last two main match stages. After the match stages were completed, the Top Gun competition was run. This was a very close, hard fought competition. The top three Mounted Shooters' raw times were hundredths of a second apart, but due to fate and circumstance, Blazin Bob reigned supreme as The Invitational Top Gun atop his loyal steed, Dillon. Buckskin Doc pulled in a heroic second place with Cherokee Conrad finishing third. It was a finish that had everyone holding their breath! 🐾

HISTORY

THIS MONTH IN HISTORY

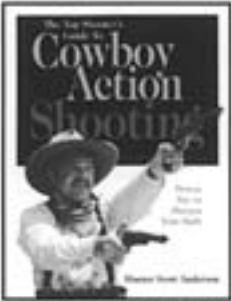

1890's
September

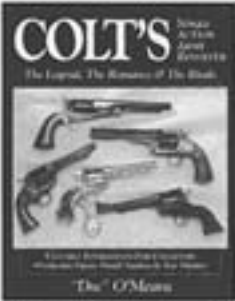

By Ellsworth T. Kincaid,
Life/Regulator #6037

- 3 Sept 1891
- Bill Dalton is arrested for a robbery at Ceres, is released for lack of evidence, and is placed back in jail in Visalia for the Alila, California robbery. Not implicated in the robbery, Bill will be released.
- 22 Sept 1891
- Another 900,000 acres of Oklahoma Indian lands are opened for settlement by President Harrison's proclamation. These lands once belonged to the Iowa, Sauk, Fox, Potawatomi, and Shawnee tribes, but were ceded by disadvantageous treaties to the United States.
- 13 Sept 1892
- With a Wells Fargo & Co. and Southern Pacific Railroad joint reward of $10,000 for train robbers John Sontag and Chris Evans, the hunt was on for these two miscreants. On September 13th, the "Battle of Sampson's Flat" raged for eight hours when the outlaws are located by a posse in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, California. Two deputies, including a former Texas Ranger are killed. Both Evans and Sontag are shot up pretty bad. Sontag will die later today from his wounds. Evans will survive his wounds and be sentenced to prison for life.
- 29 Sept 1892
- Supposedly, the Sundance Kid and two others stop a Great Northern train near Malta, Montana. The take is negligible.
- 1 Sept 1893
- The Doolin Gang (Dynamite Dick, Tulsa Jack Blake, Bill Dalton, Red Buck Weightman, Dan Clifton, and Bill Doolin), known as the Oklahombres, blaze away with 13 Federal law officers and 11 hand-picked "crack shots" in Ingalls, Oklahoma. While the gang escapes, outlaw member Arkansas Tom Jones, having killed three, surrenders that afternoon. Jones will be sentenced to 50 years imprisonment.
- 8 Sept 1893
- Luke Short dies of dropsy at Geuda Springs, Kansas.
- 16 Sept 1893
- The Cherokee Strip, 6.5 million acres in north-central Oklahoma, home to the Tonkawa and Pawnee reservations, is opened to homesteaders, the greatest opening of Indian lands in the West. Hundreds of thousands of settlers swarm into the area. Some 50,000 people claim land on this first day.
- 27 Sept 1894
- The Bureau of Indian Affairs enacts a plan to place Indian children in the public school system with white children.
- 25 Sept 1895
- William Dalton, brother of the famed Dalton Brothers, a once respected member of the California legislature, now a member of the Bill Doolin gang, is killed at his farm in Oklahoma by U.S. Marshal Loss Hart.
- 1 Sept 1896
- Hanging Judge Isaac Parker's court is adjourned for the last time. During Parker's twenty-one years at Fort Smith, Arkansas (with jurisdiction over Indian Territory (Oklahoma)), more than 160 men were sentenced to death (of which only 79 were executed).
- 28 Sept 1896
- Captain John Hughes and posse, Company D of the Texas Rangers, tracks a trio of horse thieves to Nogalitos Pass, Texas. As one of the outlaws, Jubel Friar, raises up to shoot, a Winchester bullet, fired by Ranger Thalís Cook, kills him. As Hughes and Cook continue their approach, outlaw Art Friar starts shooting. Cook and Hughes both hit their mark, killing the outlaw on the spot. The third outlaw, Ease Bixler, gallops away on one of the stolen horses.
- Sept 1897
- Cheyenne, Wyoming, the "cowboy capital," sponsors its first Frontier Days, the first big-time rodeo. A big success, tickets sell for fifteen to thirty-five cents each.
- 3 Sept 1897
- Sam Ketchum and gang rob the Colorado & Southern Railroad at Folsom, New Mexico.
- 24 Sept 1897
- The Sundance Kid, Kid Curry, and Walt Putney are captured near Lavina, Montana.
- 23 Sept 1898
- Jesse James Jr. is suspected in the robbery of a Missouri Pacific train near Kansas City.
- 9 Sept 1899
- Deputy Sheriff of Cochise County, Arizona Burt Alvord, and another deputy, Billie Stiles, that had formed the Alvord-Stiles gang, are captured along with others of their gang after holding up a Southern Pacific train near Cochise, Arizona.
- Sept 1899
- Wyatt Earp and C.E. Hoxie build the Dexter Saloon and Gambling Hall in Nome, Alaska.

~ DAKOTA ~

By Matt Braun

Book Review by Ellsworth T. Kincaid, SASS Life/Regulator #6037

With the emotional trauma of the deaths of his wife and mother on the same tragic night, Theodore Roosevelt finds himself at an agonizing precipice ... his will to go on had left him. Harvard-educated and prosperous, the youngest man ever elected to the New York State Legislature, "the most remarkable young politician of our day" turns his back on all he had achieved, including his budding political career, remaining family members, and his newly born daughter. With no other goal than to liberate himself of his immediate environment, Roosevelt turns to the singular remembrance that offered him solace ... the Dakota Territory.

Roosevelt had previously built a small cattle business in Medora. Returning, he finds his cattle operation doing well, which unfortunately, was not the case for the smaller ranchers. A good friend is now the town's malevolent businessman, contemplating the control of the area with the hiring of gunfighters and thugs to do his bidding. Cattle rustling, vigilantes, and murder were becoming the norm in this mid-1880's territory. Headstrong and sure-of-himself, "old-four-eyes" decides to make his mark, to make a stand against the lawless.

This "historical fiction" novel gives those not well versed in TR's (Teddy Roosevelt) exploits during his "cowboy" years in the Dakotas a page-turner that gives the reader cause to yell, "BULLY!" TR earned the respect of the Dakota populace, but most importantly, he earned the respect of the cowboys he hired to run his cattle empire while working with them side-by-side. His adventures of out-thinking the ruthless, being deputized and bagging the thieves, not being bullied by the bullies, hunting bears and other wild game, all while establishing a second cattle ranch is not to be missed.

Over the years, Matt Braun has become a favorite author of mine. I love his story telling, love the minute details, love how he interweaves the historical with the fiction ... heck, I can't tell the difference - all are interlaced so well.

Matt Braun, an author of forty-seven novels and four nonfiction works, including Black Fox, which was made into a CBS miniseries, was awarded the prestigious Spur Award for his novel The Kincaids and the 2004 Wister Award for Lifetime Achievement in Western Literature by the Western Writers of America, Inc. Braun has become a Western author of substance and his works, at least for me, are well worth the time.

Tuolumne Lawman,
SASS #6127

I have always wondered why in a sport like Cowboy Action Shooting™, there was one discordant note. We have pistols running in price and quality (not necessarily synonymous) from EAA Bounty Hunters to the Colt Peacemakers, with a full spectrum in between. We have the range of quality and price in rifles, from Rossi to Uberti Henry or expensive originals. Why in the heck don't we have that range in double-barreled shotguns, especially hammered doubles?

If you think about it, you either have the ubiquitous Stoeger with its stamped parts and a walnut stained Harwood stock, or an expensive, long barreled fine double. The closet thing to an affordable step up from a Stoeger was a Tri-Star with its Greener type action. The Tri-Star, however, has faded into memory, and is no longer produced. This void has just been filled, however. The Importer KBI has taken the initiative and filled the gap. They have just re-introduced their Liberty Model 12 Gauge external hammered coach gun as the Liberty II, and it's a beauty. It has been re-engineered and improved since the original Liberty Coach Gun was introduced several years ago.

LIBERTY II NEW MODEL 12 GAUGE COACHGUN

By Tuolumne Lawman, SASS Life #6127

My fans would be upset if I didn't stay with my tradition of historical tidbits in my article, so let's talk about the role of the scattergun in Old West history first.

OLD WEST SCATTERGUN LORE

The shotgun, or "street howitzer" as it was often called, was the first choice of lawmen and badmen alike. Black Bart Boles, the gentleman bandit of the California Motherlode in the 1870s and 1880s, was always armed with a scattergun and a poem as he victimized the local stage lines. Wyatt and Virgil Earp's first choice for patrolling the town and preserving order was the shotgun. Doc Holiday used a 12 gauge at the infamous gunfight at the OK Corral. Once again, Wyatt Earp used one at Iron Springs when he killed

Curly Bill Brocius.

Even the term "riding shotgun" is due to the proliferation of double barrel terrors on stagecoaches in the Old West to discourage bandits and road agents. Practically speaking, the shotgun is a far superior deterrent than any other firearm. On occasions too numerous to count during my 20 years as a lawman, the 12 gauge scattergun dissuaded a malefactor from pursuing further violence.

External hammer or "hammered" shotguns did appear first. American shotguns were initially muzzle loading, percussion arms until the late 1860's when there were some primitive attempts, like the Roper system, to make breech-loading shotguns. There were also some British makers producing breech-loading shotguns in the late 1860's; however, they were expensive and scarce here in the United States.

Then, around 1873 Remington intro-

SHOOTOUT ON THE SANTA FE

By Deadly Sharpshooter, SASS #35828

Fort White, FL The Fort White Cowboy Cavalry held its 5th annual match, the “Shootout on the Santa Fe” February 12, 2005. The Fort White Cowboy Cavalry range is located in a beautiful part of North Central Florida, famed for its crystal clear springs and shaded, slow-movin’ rivers. The Santa Fe River disappears underground for about three miles, then emerges just a half-day’s ride (by horseback) from the range. Even closer is the Ichetucknee River, an easy canter from the range. The Ichetucknee is well known for its natural beauty as it flows clear and cool for about four miles before joining the Santa Fe. Less well known is the historical fact the last recorded bison killed in Florida took place as recently as 1890, and it was pretty close to the Fort White Cowboy Cavalry range.

Nestled down in a tree-shaded valley, the Fort White Cowboy Cavalry range is unique among Florida cowboy ranges. The one place where there was no shade now boasts a roofed boardwalk and storefront, thanks to the hard work of Major Mishap, SASS #40451, and Honest Bob, SASS #55714. A new “town hall” also greets the shooters and provides a place for registration. Nuthin’ last minute about those buildings, ‘cept they weren’t there three or four weeks before the match!

Match Director, Delta Glen, SASS

Life #39137, kept his cool the whole time, including the day of the match when the weather turned out to be just about perfect. I didn’t know match directors had THAT much pull.

The match’s theme was “The Outlaw Josey Wales,” and Delta Glen Everybody had a chance to shoot! Shown are Gator, SASS #391, working the timer for Spike Silver Dollar, SASS #48670. On the next stage over, Bad Hombre, SASS #23212, watches intently.

and Jesse Toothpick, SASS #41358, did a fine job of pulling the best lines from the movie for staging. How many times, do you reckon, they had to watch it?

On the first stage, shooters mounted the covered wagon and, like Clint Eastwood, turned the crank on Delta Glen’s fabulous mock Gatling gun prop. The barrels really rotated, and more than one shooter became so engrossed in the prop, they almost forgot to turn around and grab their own real smoke wagons.

The second stage had shooters "cutting the rope" in a continuous rifle sweep to give the bad guys a "Missouri boat ride."
Stage three had the added fun o' spittin' just like Clint after sayin' the lines, "Buzzards gotta eat, just like worms." This here cowpoke distinguished hisself by havin' to wipe off his chin with a shirt sleeve before goin' on to gun drawin'. Bit of trivia about the movie: Clint used different kinds o' chewin' terbaccy, dependin' on how many takes he figgered they'd have; Beech Nut for the long takes, and cut plug for the short ones.

Aluminum peacemaker models that Sam Andrews uses as molds for his leather were props for the 4th stage. Shooters had to hold them butt forward and spin 'em around in a road agent's spin to start the stage. I'd never seen so many versions of a road agents spin in all my born days. Good thing they was fake too, 'cause some of the spin versions ended up with the barrels pointed suspiciously backwards!
On the fifth stage, shooters had to walk on the boardwalk with an armful of packages done up real nice by Crooked River Bob, SASS #26199. The line was "You gonna pull them pistols or whistle Dixie?" ... a classic line if ever there was one. Come to think of it, Crooked River Bob must o' watched that movie some hisself, 'cause them packages were the spittin' image (pun intended) of the ones Clint was holdin'.
Stage 6 had no lines, but started the stage by spittin' again. Seems like most of the waddies on this range were dry by stage 6, and it turned out to be more gesture than precipitation. On the buzzer, shooters had to take down a series of targets lined up one behind the other. The targets, loaned by Two Feathers Jack, SASS #20447, were progressively smaller, with the last one bein' real tiny. Don't know how many misses there wuz cause the cowpokes jist didn't see it.

The Fort White Saloon was the location of stage 7, where shooters started with arms folded across their chest, leanin' in the doorway. "Dyin' ain't much of a livin,' Boy" was the line that started shooters pullin' their hoglegs, then goin' for the rifle. Four shotgun rounds finished off the seventh stage.
When Capt' Terrell found Josey on his way to the Crooked River Ranch, and said, "You're all alone now, Wales," the shooter's line, as Lone Waddie poked his rifle out of the cabin window, was, "Not quite alone." The line was punctuated, o' course by drawing pistols and sweeping the five pistol targets, followed by a repeat with the second handgun. The big bell-shaped targets made up by Major Mishap rang like real bells when hit. A double-tap sweep with the rifle just about handled the rifle targets, and shooters finished off by sweeping the six knockdown targets with their shotgun.

We had 'bout 103 shooters, from all over Florida and Georgia. Vendors and sponsors helped make our match a good one, with plenty of door prizes and temptin' things to buy. Our thanks to Tennessee Tonto, Classic Leatherworks, Bama Kid, Carol Chidlow, Andrew Custom Leather, Pickett Weaponry, Starline Brass, Space Coast Bullets, Brownell's, and Dixie Gunworks. The favorable comments that found their way back to the hard workin' crew from Fort White made their day, and indicated what everybody felt ... it was a great shoot! Some comments from the SASS wire included: "A lot of work - they had great stages - the food was very good - the props and range were one of the best - and the folks were just great!." Probably the best comment received came from a top shooter who joined us for the day. He said, "It felt like a big match."🐾

GUNSMOKE '04 - THE SASS MINNESOTA STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

By Mogollon Drifter, SASS Life #13690

Morristown, MN At last, the time of year everyone in the North Country looks forward to - early Fall, and of course, Gunsmoke '04, the SASS Minnesota State Championship! A record turnout of 187 shooters made their way to Morristown on September 16th-19th to compete in one of the finest SASS matches in the country. All the ingredients for an awesome State shoot were in place: great weather, big close safe targets, a state of the art Cowboy Action Shooting™ shooting range, and of course, good old fashioned friendly Minnesotan hospitality. And as anyone who's been here will tell you, this was a great time.

On Thursday, it didn't take the locals long to figure out something different was going on. The sweet sound of lead clanging on steel was enough to warm the hearts of all present. Side match day was a great opportunity to meet new and old friends, and limber up the shooting thumb. Folks were eager to get in some last minute practice before the main event. Aside from the normal speed events, there were other shooting activities going on as well. The Morristown Gun Club hosted the Prairie Chicken shoot, (Cowboy Wobble Trap), which was challenging with those short barreled cowboy shotguns. There was also a derringer/pocket pistol poker side match, as well as a jailbreak team event.

As the sun rose on Friday morning, cowboys and cowgirls geared up for the main event. After the morning welcome speech and safety briefing, the lead started flying. The weather was perfect for the entire shoot. Temperatures ranged from the mid-seventies in the afternoon, to the high fifties in the evenings. The Lord blessed us with picture perfect shooting weather. For those of you who wonder if the MN State bird, (the infamous mosquito) was in attendance, the answer is no ... he took the weekend off. Our groundskeeper, Shady Sights, SASS #26663, took care of them as well as a multitude of other tiresome tasks. Speaking of tireless, Mr. Quigley Photography was on hand throughout the match to capture some absolutely awesome action photos. Those guys are the best! The cowboys/cowgirls gave Mr. Quigley plenty of material for those scrapbooks. After the shooting stopped on Friday, folks gathered in the Big Tent for some great tasting food, music, and a chance to catch up with some old friends.

On Saturday, the posse schedules were reversed. Those folks who shot in the afternoon the day before were now the morning posses. And those folks who shot in the morning the day before got a chance to sleep in because they didn't have to start shooting until noon. This scheduling format allows plenty of time to watch friends you may not have seen shoot before, as well as time to browse the vendors.

And although at the end of the day when the shooting stopped, the smiles and grins continued thanks to Cap'n Saveur Baken's cowboy poetry and Long Larry's short story. After those two finished their performances, the applause and cheering was deafening.

Match Winner Blazin Billy Jack.

As the banquet wrapped up, the awards presentation was conducted. Outstanding shooters Zane, SASS #19795, and Songbird, SASS #48971, were crowned the Men's and Women's Overall State Champs, while Blazin Billy Jack, SASS #10562, from neighboring Illinois, held off all challengers and took home the overall Top Gun trophy, donated by our main match sponsor, Mike Bray of Bray Saddlery.

In case you wanted to know how far.

A warm and deserving "congratulations" also goes out to all the category winners.

The High Noon man-on-man and Top Gun shootouts proved to be great fun on Sunday morning. The very talented shooter Spur, SASS #9645, came out on top. Everyone who participated enjoyed themselves.

The Cedar Valley Vigilantes Cowboy Action Shooting™ Club organized yet another fantastically fun group of shooting scenarios. The stage props consisted of actual permanent buildings that not only look cool, but are also spectator friendly. The twelve large, close, and challenging stages turned out 40 clean shooters, and 187 big smiles. Gunsmoke '05 on September 15th – 18th 2005 promises to be just as good, if not better. We hope to see everyone there! 🤠

Be remembered in history with the likes of Samuel Colt and Oliver Winchester as the maker of one of America's premier firearms, the legendary Sharps Rifle. C. Sharps Arms Company conveniently located in Big Timber – halfway between Bozeman and Billings. Montana's premier elk hunting is only 20 minutes away with fishing on the Yellowstone just 5 minutes from town.

MILES CITY SADDLERY – A rare opportunity to own a well established business in Montana, as well as an important part of Western History. The Miles City Saddlery can track its beginnings back nearly 100 years when Al Furstnow and Charles Logshall formed a partnership that created possibly the most famous saddle company in history. The Miles City Saddlery not only sells saddles and tack, they also offer a wide variety of clothes, hats, boots and silver.

WHO SAYS YOU CAN'T TEACH AN OLD COWBOY NEW TRICKS?

By Clay Buster, SASS #28906

“Wow, this is fun!”

“I don’t understand this. I’ve only fired ten shots and the cylinder in my pistol won’t turn!”

“Barrel/cylinder gap, what is that?”

“You know, this stuff is not nearly as hard to clean up as I thought it would be.”

These are some of the comments overheard as almost one hundred cowboys and cowgirls participated in the very first Southeastern Blackpowder Championship sponsored by Hodgdon/IMR Powder Company. Through the foresight of Hodgdon’s Mike Daly, aka Birdshot, SASS #3616, this new venture became a reality and provided a great opportunity for a lot of folks to give the Darkside a try.

Cowboys and cowgirls who shot a blackpowder category in the Main Match of Mule Camp had their entry fee paid to the Southeastern Blackpowder Championship by Hodgdon/IMR. Those that shot “smokeless” in the Main Match spent $20 to have more fun than they could have imagined.

The number of categories offered was expanded beyond those of a regular SASS match, and the rules on legal firearms for blackpowder were also more liberal. So, if you don’t mind cleaning a ’97, it’s a hoot with blackpowder!

Everyone who participated had a great time, got a chance to try something new, and plans to be back again in 2006. As announced at Mule Camp this year, Mike Daly and the folks of Hodgdon/IMR have very graciously agreed to be our Main Match sponsor again in 2006 and to be the sponsor for an even bigger and better Southeastern Blackpowder Championship!

We are formulating plans now for the match, so please share any ideas you may have on things you would like to see included. We hope next year will offer more fun opportunities for all those wanting to be a part of the Hodgdon/IMR 2006 Southeast Regional Blackpowder Championships. We hope all of you will make plans to join us.🐾

RUCKUS AT RED ROCK 2005

By Lit Bit Younger SASS #37957

St. George, Utah It all came together in the middle of April in beautiful St. George, Utah. Many of you from other parts of the country may have been knee-deep in snow or trying to avoid mud puddles at that time, but in St. George, April is a time of spring blossoms and warm sunshine - a perfect time for an annual Cowboy Action Shooting™ match. The Dixie Desperados of St. George love to welcome other shooters to “Dixie” country, another name for Southern Utah. Panoramic views of semi-arid desert, lots of red rock, and beautiful mountain ranges surround our shooting range. There is plenty of space at the range for dry camping, and when our visitors weren’t shooting, they were within a short scenic drive to many of the country’s most beautiful national parks - the Grand Canyon, Zion National Park, and Bryce Canyon National Park.

Thursday, April 10, was our registration and side match day. We had some exceptional sponsors, including Brownells, so everyone received a door prize at registration. One of our club members, Dusty Rose, organized a swap meet with tables full of leather and clothes and other Cowboy Action Shooting™ equipment put on sale by both local and out of state cowboys and cowgirls. The sale was very successful.

Nine side matches were held to satisfy all those who like pre-match practice or the chance to win another first, second, or third place trophy. In addition to the side matches, we added a two-stage Plainsman Event this year. For many, it was a great opportunity to shoot their cap and ball (percussion) pistols. There’s a little more smoke than usual (since all use blackpowder), but it’s an event we’re sure to repeat.

Friday we shot seven main match stages. Buzzards’ Brat set up his famous Bowling Ball Stage, which allows the shooter to engage as many shotgun or pistol targets (in any order) before (or after) a bowling ball is released that rolls down a ramp to engage a clay pigeon. This always causes a lot of trepidation until the shooter realizes he’s in control of the stage. Another favorite is the “dump” target stage that proves no matter how large the target, it’s surprising how fast one can miss it. Saturday we completed the last 5 of the 12 main match stages. All stages had close and large targets. The club puts much effort into ensuring each stage flows efficiently and safely. It’s great for those who like to shoot stages that are fast and uncomplicated, but still lots of fun.

At the conclusion of the main match stages, we held posse shoots, as well as four person and six person team shoots. All of the participants in the posse shoot and team shoots were determined by a drawing. You never know who you’re going to get on your team, and it’s great to see how the most unlikely combinations do so well together.

The posse shoot was made up of teams of nine shooters who each had three “snakes” to be shot over a distant target line with their shotguns. What a blast - literally! The four person Team Shoot involved pistol, rifle, and shotgun, with each person shooting their designated targets in order. The persons on the six man Team Shoot each shot one of their pistols at one dump target, then reloaded one round. After the six took their turns firing off their five rounds, each shooter fired their reload round at a small, stationary clay target next to their dump target. It was amazing how many struggled with that clay; it must have been the adrenaline rush that comes from shooting in sequence.

The awards dinner was held Saturday night at the Dixie Convention Center, and it was an exceptionally fine buffet. After the delicious dinner, plaques were given to first, second, and third place winners in all categories, and a drawing was held to award the two grand door prizes - two pump shotguns. With over 100 shooters, all categories (especially the Seniors) were well represented, but in the end, J. T. Wild was the top shooter for the men and Addie Rose took top honors for the ladies.

We had a terrific time hosting this annual event and look forward to next year. In the meantime, we hope to see many of you return to St. George to attend our Huntsman World Senior Games Cowboy Action Shooting™ Match in early October. The Huntsman World Senior Games is a world-class event that brings over 8000 athletes to St. George to compete in over 25 different sports. Cowboy Action Shooting™ has become one of the “crowd favorites” at the Opening Ceremonies, and our Senior Games Shooting Match will be open to 200 shooters this year. SASS INVITATIONAL 2005

Weather Mystery Solved!

By Tex, SASS #4

Founders Ranch, NM Many of us wanted to know what the weather will be like for END of TRAIL 2006 ... and now we know (or at least have a good idea ...). No more cold wind or soft ground ... high 80's, low humidity (good kind of heat!), and little, if any rain. The days are longer as well ... June 21st is the Summer Solstice ... the longest day of the year! Dress light, drinks lots of water, wear big hats, and don't worry excessively about the evening temperatures ... although some sort of rain gear might still be useful. Saturday evening we were treated to a "Sound and Lights" show of biblical proportions! A summer thunderstorm came rumbling through ... and the next day there was no Internet service at the ranch!

This year's Invitational was an intimate little match ... roughly 100 competitors ... and by all accounts, everyone had a marvelous time! There was a Warm-up Match Tuesday – Wednesday, Side Matches on Thursday, and the Main Match Friday – Saturday. On Sunday we hosted the Team Shoot and Top Gun

Four amigos pose in their finest just prior to the Saturday night Charro costume contest. Notorious (on the left) and Coyote Calhoun (on the right) did well in the judging. Tex didn't participate so he could take pictures, and Chiz lost because he didn't do a good job picking the judges!

Shoot-off followed by the awards.

Tex's Plainsman side match again sported a few unique twists! It was another four-stage affair, but suffered very few rules or constraints. The long guns could be staged wherever the competitor wanted ... but the two guns could not be staged together. Rifle, pistol, and shotgun targets were identified and the number of rounds established (e.g., for the pistols, put 10 rounds on five targets, no double taps). The shooter's starting position was designated (usually someplace well up range away from the firing line). Target sequences and order of the firearms were left to the shooter's discretion. The task was to clear out each gang of bandits ... it was up to you to decide how best to do it! However, if you missed any targets, those guys "got away" and joined the gang on the next bay! There was no five-second penalty for missing a target ... you simply had to pick up an extra rifle target on the next stage! In essence, we all shot the match "clean," but some of us used a lot more rounds than others! Notorious left the rest of us in his dust! Good shooting!

Match Director, Coyote Calhoun, set up and hosted the first SASS Silhouette Championships at this match. We were all given the opportunity to put as many practice rounds down range using both rifle and pistol caliber lever action rifles on Side Match Day as we wanted. Some of us couldn't miss! We then shot for score following the Main Match on Friday and Saturday (shooter's choice which day). This match consisted of four banks of five little-bitty hanging targets at various distances down range (~40 yards out to ~90 yards). 30 seconds was allotted to shoot each five target set ... however, since we're all "action" shooters, no one took more than 15 seconds to empty their gun ... many of us took MUCH less time! And, it was amazing how much more difficult the shooting was with the timer going!

On Sunday Coyote opened the Top Gun Shoot-off to everyone! How often have you sat in the crowd willing to pay almost any amount of money to be allowed to shoot in these exciting events with the “big boys?” In the old days, when I was good, I had the opportunity many times ... but it's been years since I've had the privilege of participating in a Top Gun Shoot-off ... and it showed! I didn't bring near enough ammo and had to borrow a strange rifle to play. The first rifle I borrowed was Chiz's .45 caliber Yellowboy ... only to learn it was actually a .38-40! After frantically finding appropriate ammo, I discovered his gun would no longer make the bullets go “bang!” So, I borrowed a second rifle, this time from Wild Shot. Unfortunately, I drew his name as my first head-to-head competitor ... and he took his rifle back to use against me! Fortunately I was able to borrow a sweet-shooting '73 in .38 Special. It was fast, no recoil, and I could actually see the targets (yes, I was only allowed to shoot smokeless in that rifle) ... and it was EXCITING! I managed to defeat Wild Shot, but only by the slimmest of margins! I wasn't so fortunate on the next round ... but it was great fun getting Bahia de Coto provides the backdrop of the central plaza as seen from the big tent. The silent auction provided excellent startup funds for driving the facility to its final configuration. Basic “as built” drawings are being developed in preparation for designing Founders Hall and setting the standards and locations for the other town buildings. This project is going to take awhile!

to “play the game!”

SASS has always had an attitude about its events ...they should be first class, or don't do them! There was far more to the event than just the shooting. Wednesday evening was an informal social evening where Coyote Calhoun cooked buffalo burgers for everyone on site. On Friday evening Syd Masters and the Swing Riders were on center stage in concert. When asked to play “swing music,” they were delighted and so was the audience. Several couples braved the rocky, dirt tent floor and danced the evening away. Saturday evening was special! Chiz in his magnificent Charro outfit played host to a Mexican Fiesta Night, complete with Mariachi Band. Costumes were judged (there's no truth to the rumor some judges were bribed ... but since Chiz didn't win, it may have been true!) and the “Big Sombrero” contest was hotly contested. It was too close to call, so a pair of winners was announced!

This event is a fundraiser for Ranch construction. There was a silent auction, which drew considerable attention. Some $10,000 was raised during this auction – many thanks to all who participated! One of the auction items was a piñata donated by More or Less and Giggles ... the honors went to Morning Dove, our favorite mounted buckarette ... and she did herself proud when given the big stick! Several well placed whacks, and there was candy everywhere!

The rains we all experienced for the past year have made the ranch absolutely beautiful! The grass is knee high, waves in the wind, and is as green as Tex showed it in the initial report concerning the ranch.

Next year the Invitational will be held the end of April, the same time END of TRAIL was held this year. The weather will be a bit more “iffsey,” but maybe still a delight. Many of us truly enjoyed END of TRAIL's weather this year ... it was an excuse to break out heavier clothes than most of us Southern Californians ever get to wear ... feeling the brisk breeze and breathing the clear mountain air ... it's something to look forward to! L

1ST JAPANESE COWBOY ACTION SHOOTING CHAMPIONSHIP

By Holster Ace, SASS #32755

On May 28-29th, 2005, we held our first Japanese Cowboy Action Shooting™ Championship in the historic town of Ise City. Our shooting range was on the grounds of the hotel, where nine participants shot four stages using Colt .45's, Winchester '92's, and shotguns. Our ammunition was high-pressure air gas bombs, not real bullets (CO2 cartridge and pellets). Targets were cardboard cowboys and balloons set out at 10 feet.

Match Director, Holster Ace, is congratulated for putting on the 1st Cowboy Action Shooting™ Championship in Japan.

Participants in the 1st Japanese Cowboy Action Shooting™ match.

Contestant Betty Shinaoka has been training for two years in Cowboy Action Shooting™ and fast draw.

Taking careful aim at the balloon targets.

Match Director, Holster Ace, SASS #32755, and Hide Ace, SASS #58867.

Ready to take out those “bad hombres.”

ters started pouring in led by Hawkeye Scout, SASS #42322. Hawkeye and other members of the Lone Pine Rangers planted their poles, blew up their balloons and soon the wax began to fly. What a pretty sight those horses and mounted riders make. Hawkeye Scout gave particular praise to Bullwhip Bub, SASS #5062, assisted by Hipshot, SASS #7, and Buck O’Neil, SASS #40725, conducted the RO-II Course attended by over 20 shooters, including yours truly. Sitting in the RO-II Classroom made me realize how far SASS has come in standardizing procedures to improve safety, uniformity, and consistency for all SASS matches. I am very proud to be part of it.

The Fifteen Stages, although challenging, were simplicity personified. Movement and sequence instructions were clear. Each and every Posse Leader was given a pre-shoot walk through where notes were taken to ensure uniformity by all participants. Shooters were given clear instructions where to stage and re-stage firearms, and loopholes were avoided. A common thread throughout the shoot was the term, “make long guns safe.” This provided shooters with the option of re-staging the long gun where originally staged, or finding another safe and perhaps more convenient location to stage it. Flexibility of this nature to include eight Gunfighter friendly stages stood as a hallmark throughout the match.

One entire stage contained targets donated by Action Target, one of 17 major sponsors for this Regional. Where in the heck would our matches be without these sponsors? Wild West Mercantile and Wahmaker Old West Clothing gave us a ton of clothes to give as door prizes. Marlin, Henry Repeating Arms Co., Cimarron F.A. Co., Taylor’s & Co., Interstate Arms, and E.M.F gave us shootin’ irons that were drawn for by shooter number. And a Dillon XL650 top of the line re-loader was won by Bea A.

Starr, SASS #28873. I offered her 20 bucks for the thing, but she turned me down. In addition to our major sponsors, we have those indomitable vendors, who set up their tents on Sutlers’ Row, shoot after shoot, year after year. We thank them for their support!

The Posse and Master Gunfighter events were held Sunday morning after Cowboy Church. Posse 6 knocked off 10 bowling pins and sawed a 4” x 6” board in half in 14.74 seconds, barely nosing out Posse 9, which did the same trick in 15.96 seconds. The Master Gunfighter stage, designed by Columbus D. Shannon, SASS #4743, and sponsored by Texas Jack Omahondro, SASS #151 (yep, that’s Frank Leaman, the gunsmith, engraver and magician), began immediately after the posse shoot. Frank also donated about $300 worth of engraving for another lucky shooter. The Master Gunfighter Stage featured the top eight women shooting it out for top lady, and the top 16 men shooting for top male.

THE LONG HUNTER RODEO REVOLVER...

- Rear Sight's widened from .108 to .140.
- Serrated front sight.
- Forcing Cone cut to 11 degrees.
- Comes with a crisp, no creep trigger pull.
- Radius the square corners on the trigger and polish.
- Replace factory flat "hand" spring. The frame is drilled and a Ruger style coil spring is installed for reliability.
- Factory main spring is replaced with a Lee's Gunslinger spring for a smooth, reliable cocking motion while maintaining a quick hammer drop.
- Factory flat "trigger/bolt" spring is replaced with a Lee's Gunslinger wire spring for added strength.
- Hammer is relieved .007 on each side through hammer slot to eliminate drag marks. For that special custom look, the hammer is then jeweled.

When I heard about Long Hunter's Revolvers, I immediately telephoned him and ordered two of them in caliber .38 Special. I opted for the in-stock barrel length of 4-3/4 inches and meekly asked Long Hunter, "Can I have them in consecutive serial numbers?" "Of course," he replied, "and there's no extra charge for that," he added, with that distinctive Texas drawl of his. "I have numbers 37 and 38 ready to be shipped," he said, sensing the excitement in my voice. After exchanging FFL information, I meekly asked Long Hunter if anyone had volunteered to evaluate his revolver for the Cowboy Chronicle. When he replied “no,” I hesitantly offered to do so, and then I quickly added, “If you ship them today, I can get right on that review.” This was my sneaky way of getting him to ship my revolvers quickly. “Okay,” said Long Hunter, “I can do that, and I appreciate your offer to review them for The Cowboy Chronicle.” Well, my little trick worked, and sure enough, two days later the revolvers were sitting at Jerry Koch’s Guntrader store in Redmond, Oregon. I sure pulled one over on Long Hunter!

Better known in the Cowboy world as Texas Jack Morales, SASS #5026, Jerry Koch is a consistent top shooter. The idea struck me, why not ask Texas Jack to assist me in evaluating these revolvers at the range? And, while at it, ask his wife, Leggs Balou, SASS #10400, to add a ladies perspective to the revolver evaluation. Leggs is also a top competitive shooter, although she's been shooting only a year and a half. But, this is good, I thought—having her perspective would be deeply appreciated by the distaff side of the SASS house. Both Texas Jack Morales and Leggs Balou agreed to help me, so a test date at the range was set.

The three of us set out to evaluate the Rodeo Competition Revolver as average Cowboy Action Shooters™ would do: shooting metal under the clock, not paper, and assessing shot groups on steel, not flimsy targets. Unlike hunters and marksmen, Cowboy Action Shooting™ Shooters draw, aim, and shoot as fast as they can—and that's what we did. It worked well, as the reader will note in the accompanying photos.

and loads for reasonable comparison. My loads were 125-grain molybdenum coated RNFP Bear Creek Bullets, pushed by 2.6 grains of Clays powder—all nicely contained in Starline Brass primed with CCI Small Pistol Primers. Texas Jack and Leggs shot rounds loaded by John Hull's Ammo Alley (15660 Woodgreen Court, La Pine, OR 97739, colt45@coinet.com). John's bullets were 95 grain Molybdenum coated RNFP, pushed by 3.0 grains of Red Dot powder, with Federal small pistol primers (standard, not magnum). John's bullets looked different from Bear Creek's because he does not include graphite in his Molybdenum mix, thus giving his bullets a more metallic shine. Regardless of appearance, the results were the same—both loads hit consistently in the white! The ammunition we used, like the revolvers themselves, were totally AMERICAN made—this made us feel good, indeed!

We noticed very little difference in shot groups at the distance we were shooting; i.e., standard SASS recommended distance of 7-10 yards for pistol targets. Additionally, we had no problem knocking down standard SASS knock-down “tombstones” as they are called, with the loads we were using, and our shot groups on standard sized SASS targets were consistently in the bull as mentioned above. I must remind the reader we did not use any shooting supports, as can be seen in the accompanying photos. We drew, aimed, and fired under the clock. Both revolvers LH037 and LH038 shot to point of aim. Texas Jack normally pulls a bit left and low—this test was no exception—that’s his habit and no fault of the revolvers. Legg’s was right on, and mine were also in the white, but at a much slower rate than Texas Jack (smile). Later, when I was alone, I placed some targets out at a distance of 30 yards or so. The result was the same as the closer shooting—once again, on the white! This time I smiled to myself.

When asked her opinion, Leggs Balou said she wished she had the opportunity of shooting these revolvers when she first started shooting instead of the heavier non-tuned revolvers with which she started. She added, “These revolvers, unlike other new revolvers, are tuned before sale; thus, any new shooter will have a very favorable experience with nicely tuned and very accurate firearms instead of a rather rude introduction of a standard non-tuned and much stiffer revolver.” We agreed with her assessment, and reminded ourselves of how many wives and young people were driven away from the sport because of stiff and cumbersome firearms—normally “hand me downs” from another family member. The fact Long Hunter’s revolvers come tuned out of the box is a cost savings factor that will mean a great deal to many families. Additionally, USFA provides a “lifetime” warranty—a no BS warranty, I may add.

Texas Jack chimed in and said, the fit and finish is simply outstanding—you can't tell where the stocks end and the metal begins!" He played with the revolver in his hand, and then said, "I really believe this is the best Colt made since 1873." I had to smile, knowing what he meant about USFA quality, and the fact they are the only firearms manufacturer in the state of Connecticut—I couldn't help it, my mind drifted once again to Sam Colt. Then, as Texas Jack and Leggs headed for their truck, I asked both if I could have my revolvers back. "Oh, I'm sorry," they said almost in unison, "we almost forgot."

ORDERING INFO All guns must be shipped to a Federal Firearms License holder. Long Hunter will need a copy of an original, signed FFL before shipping. He recommends you contact your local FFL dealer to make arrangements for delivery before ordering—most dealers will handle such a transaction for a minimal fee. It's easy to order and to use your credit card, if desired, on Long Hunter's web site listed above. You can also telephone him direct before ordering: 1-806-365-0093. LHSS Stock Price, $680.00, plus shipping: $25 for one gun, $5 for each additional gun. And, Long Hunter joins me in saying, "God bless our Military People wherever they are!"

LIBERTY II NEW MODEL 12 GAUGE COACHGUN . . .

duced the first practical American breech loading 10 and 12 gauge shotguns. In short order, Purdy, Colt, and a host of others followed. These were all initially external hammered, breech loading shotguns. Even after box-lock (hammerless) shotguns appeared, the external hammer scatterguns stayed popular well into the beginning of the twentieth century.

KBI's Liberty II Coachgun

The KBI Liberty II is a real gem. It is an external hammered "street howitzer" that would make Doc Holiday smile. It is made in Turkey to KBI's exacting specifications. It is a quality firearm.

The Liberty II comes standard with 20", cylinder choked barrels. The barrels are beautifully polished and deeply blued, with a hint of engraving around the chamber end of the barrels. There is a full-length raised rib between the barrels and a large brass bead front sight. It has extractors, rather than ejectors, in order to comply with SASS regulations. The lock work, hammers, receiver, and trigger guard are all richly color case hardened. It has an authentic curved steel butt plate that is also color case hardened. The fit of the metal parts is beautiful.

It has a real walnut (yes, I said REAL WALNUT) stock and forearm, rather than a walnut stained hardwood stock like the Stoeger and Savage doubles we see. The forearm is a period correct "splinter" type, unlike the modern beavertail forearms of the Stoegers and Russian made guns. It has a real cut chequered pattern, as does the pistol grip, not the cheap looking machine pressed type. The wood finish seems to bring out the nice straight grain of the stock. I only wish the pistol grip was a period teat drop shape, instead of the flat bottom one it has.

The Liberty II's external hammers are real hammers that strike real firing pins, unlike the Russian guns with fake hammers that are actually cocking levers, and have fake protruding firing pins they pretend to hit! The design of the mule ear hammers is such that they can be cocked simultaneously by drawing the weak hand back over the top of the receiver as you bring it up to shoulder with the strong hand. I believe the ears on the Liberty II are a tad longer than the Chinese made TNN 1878 Colt copy, and much longer than the Rossi's. Unlike the Rossi, the Liberty II's hammers can be cocked with the action open. The hammer springs are about medium, so the cocking is fairly easy and fast.

The Liberty II Coach Gun has two safety features. First, there is an external tang safety on top of the receiver. It is easily activated or disengaged with the thumb. Unlike the Stoeger and the other doubles we use, it does not automatically engage when the firearm is cocked. This prevents the embarrassing act of trying to bend the triggers to get the shotgun to go off because the safety is on. Apparently the Turks and KBI trust us enough to know when we should use a safety. The second safety system is that the hammers are the rebounding type, and the firing pins are the inertial type.

AT THE RANGE

How does it shoot? In a word, GREAT! The Liberty II throws up to the shoulder naturally, points readily, and my eye is right there, perfectly sighting down the rib. I patterned it at 15 yards, and the patterns were centered dead on the point of aim, and about 12" in diameter. The action is tight, and the fit is perfect. The bores are mirror bright, and the chambers are sufficiently large and slick. When using the Federal 12 gauge you get in the 100 packs from Walmart, the empty hulls fall free after firing. When the action is opened, it stays in the fully open position - allowing the hulls plenty of clearance to fall free. My blackpowder loaded Federal paper hulls, however, do not fall free. Shooting paper hulls with the "Holy Black," I have yet to find any double shotgun from which my paper hulled blackpowder loads will fall free from the barrels after firing.

I am an avid "Dark Side" shooter, shooting exclusively blackpowder cartridge and percussion, either Duelist or Gunfighter. In an effort to be more "period," I have used a Rossi hammered coachgun, Spanish Ugarta hammered double, and more recently an original 1914 vintage Stevens Ranger double hammered gun. All of the above hammered doubles were great guns, but all had one common failing. They were REALLY SLOW to cock. The Liberty II Model, with its appropriately configured hammers, is almost as fast as a standard box-lock double to shoot. Add to that the fact it looks VERY Cowboy, and you get a real winner!

At the local monthly matches, and at the Plainfield Raid and High Sierra Shoot Out annual matches, I have never missed a shot with the Liberty II. It has also gotten a lot of positive comments at those matches. I retired and sold my 335 Stevens 1900's vintage box-lock to keep and use the Liberty II as my only Cowboy Action Shooting™ shotgun.

With retail running about $475 to $500, it is more than the cost of a Stoeger. It is worth every penny, however. I got mine from Riverview Sales at www.Gunbroker.com. You can contact them for a Liberty II direct by email at Mainship40@aol.com. It's okay to pay a little more for quality.

Division at Showdown 2005. In either case, all will be secure in their abilities and will be able to enjoy the shooting sports for the rest of their lives.

During my parting discussion with John Crazy, he stressed the need to bring up new generations of shooters in a safe and friendly environment. He encourages all clubs to have a Lil' Buckaroo program and would very much like to exchange ideas through active dialog with those clubs that have similar programs or want to start a program. John would also welcome questions and offer guidance to anyone interested in any of the NRA programs. John's program is open to all children and grandchildren ages 6-

11. Class is held every second Saturday of each month at the Cajon Cowboys Range, located on the Gem Ranch, Cajon CA. The club furnishes all firearms and ammunition.

Further information can be found at www.cajoncowboys.com, or by contacting John directly at Johncrazy@kmr.com.

I encourage everyone to visit and shoot with the Cajon Cowboys. If you have kids wanting to join you shooting at a formal range or just for plinking in the desert, I especially encourage you to have them attend John's Lil' Buckaroo shooting school. Good technique and safe habits are the basis of a life-long enjoyment of the shooting sports.

taken an interest in the shooting sport we all love. Delaware's Delight is serious about her training under the tutelage of Quickdraw Pinkerton, SASS #49453. Since dad is a gunsmith [New Castle Gunsmithing] he outfitted her with a pair of Ruger Bearcats, a Henry rifle, and a SXS .410 hammer scattergun. After the match I asked her what she thought of the experience. Though tired, she stated, "I just didn't want to embarrass myself and have a procedural." Her big grin said it all.

The presence of our young shooter had parents thinking this IS a family sport. This is our future and we should be taking every opportunity to expose the public to it in a manner they will want to join in the fun and excitement. One father told me he had seen SASS on TV and read we were going to have a demonstration at the NRA Day event and had driven 100 plus miles down from Philadelphia to check it out. He left with a Cowboy Chronicle and two membership applications.

If your club or organization is contemplating an NRA Day, please give consideration to include Cowboy Action Shooting™ in the festivities. Contact your NRA Field Representative about holding a sponsored event in your region. <http://www.nrafoundation.org/friends> Click on your state.

CLUB REPORTS

SOUTHERN MISSOURI RANGERS INTRODUCE COWBOY ACTION SHOOTING™ AND NEW SHOOTER ORIENTATION AT GREAT OUTDOORS DAY

By Snake Eyes, SASS #39553

The Missouri Department of Conservation maintains a shooting range near Springfield, Missouri, known as the Andy Dalton Range. This exceptional range offers facilities for trap, skeet, archery, pistol, and rifle shooting.

For the last three years, members of the Southern Missouri Rangers have had a booth at the Great Outdoors Day. We allow the public ages 12 and older to shoot all of our guns, including our Sharps and other long-range guns. This not only promotes the Andy Dalton Range, but also promotes SASS and Cowboy Action Shooting™.

There was concern from some that during our monthly shoots,

(l) Gravemaker Don, SASS #27225, and (r) Snake Eyes, SASS #39553, present Mike Brooks an Award of Thanks at the Andy Dalton Range for providing a classroom and the range for new shooter orientation.

Gravemaker Don instructs a new shooter. The pupil hit three out of five targets even though he had never shot a single action before.

good enough to send me an outline.

On May 21st 2005, we held an Introduction to Cowboy Action Shooting™/New Shooter Orientation at the Andy Dalton Range. Twenty participants spent two hours in the classroom going over the SASS Handbook. Even though this was longer than expected, it was time well spent, considering the excellent questions and comments from the participants. After the classroom discussion, all participants were allowed to shoot stages like they would encounter at a Cowboy Action Shooting™ match.

Gravemaker Don, SASS #27225, and I thank all who support our sport,
including the Andy Dalton Range,
NRA, and our whole SASS Family.

We presented a Spirit of The Game award to Mr. Michael Brooks for allowing us to use the classroom and range.

many visitors would come and observe, seemingly interested, but never returned to shoot. After much discussion among a few of our members, we determined what was needed was an Introductory class. The class's function would be to encourage shooters by providing them not only with rules, but allow them to actually experience Cowboy Action Shooting™. Hopefully, this would remove any inhibitions and make them feel more comfortable. I inquired on the Sass Wire for information regarding a class such as this and members of the Comanche Valley Vigilantes, Nunio Binez, Doc Brazos, and Nueces Outlaw were

CATCLAW SHAW, SASS #42076

By Uncle Peeboy, SASS #29330

Catclaw “Caz” Shaw, aka Robert Dean Caswall, Jr. passed away suddenly May 9, 2005, at the age of 70.

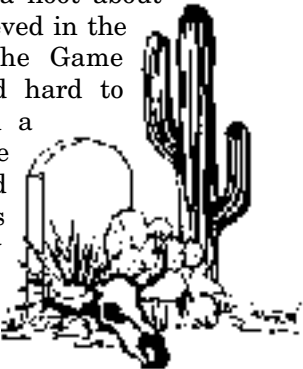

Caz was a lifelong sportsman with passionate interests in muzzle loading, rifle building, gun smithing, rendezvousing, Cowboy Action Shooting™, history, teaching, mentoring, and recruiting others of similar interests to the ranks.

He was a lifelong member of the National Rifle Association; a member of National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, having served faithfully and energetically as an Ohio Field Rep for over 25 years; the first safety officer of at the North-South Skirmish Association’s Winchester, VA range; 1st Sgt on the five-year national champion NSSA championship cannon team; the founder of the Black Swamp Primitive Riflemen; a member of the Toledo Muzzle Loaders; a member of the board of directors of the Sandusky County Sportsmen’s Club; and the co-founder and spiritual leader of the Sandusky County Regulators.

Caz was a visionary and ambassador for all the shooting sports and lived life fully to the very end. He was thrilled to see a dream come true by shooting at the inaugural cowboy match in April on the newly dedicated and permanent range we call Stony Bottom.

Catclaw Shaw was a very accurate shooter, and extremely slow, and didn't give a hoot about it. He believed in the Spirit of the Game and worked hard to see all had a fair chance and a good time. He is already missed.

ROOSTER DALTON,
SASS #27011

Tooele, UT Rooster Dalton, aka Arvil A. Jennings, passed away June 16, 2005. Born in 1931, the youngest of 12, he was a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and later served in the Navy. He was a mechanical engineer at the Tooele Army Depot until his retirement in 1986.

Rooster Dalton had a competitive spirit and excelled in whatever he attempted. He loved golf, cooking, tennis, horseshoes (state champion), bench rest shooting, and Cowboy Action Shooting™. He told his wife many times how he wished he had found Cowboy Action Shooting™ earlier in his life. He was also a member of the Elks and Eagles clubs.

He is survived by his wife and five children, sixteen grandchildren, five great-grandchildren, many friends, and his furry friend, Taja.

SASS Museum

The SASS Museum and Cowboy Action Shooting Hall of Fame is a not-for-profit 501 (c)(3) educational institution designed to document and preserve the American Western Culture.

The Mission of the SASS Museum and Hall of Fame is to preserve the historic significance of Cowboy Action Shooting and the cultural aspects of the Single Action Shooting Society for the enrichment of the SASS membership, Western lifestyles public and Cowboy Action Shooting industry.

The SASS Museum is funded through contributions from the membership of the Single Action Shooting Society, the Western Lifestyles public and fundraisers at membership events.

Please help make the dream of a Museum for our game and lifestyle so that others may enjoy it for years to come.

SASS Cowboy Legacy Wall

The SASS Museum will prominently feature a SASS Cowboy Legacy Wall that will list donors of major contributions. This wall will list the names of individuals, clubs and organizations showing every future visitor the support the Museum has received.

The SASS Museum is presently located in the headquarter offices of the Single Action Shooting Society in Yorba Linda, California, and construction has already begun for the first in-house storage facility.

Cowboy Action Shooting Hall of Fame

The history of the Single Action Shooting Society and the sport of Cowboy Action Shooting is one of dedication, creativity and achievement. Its people and their lives have created a family union with enduring appeal not only in the United States but also throughout the world.

The men and women honored within the SASS Hall of Fame, SASS highest honor, represent the heart and spirit of this truly American pastime. Sport founders, promoters, manufacturers, makers, shooters and others whose contributions to the game helped it to grow and endure, find a home within this unique memorial.

The SASS Hall of Fame honors and memorializes the men and women who, through their exemplary contributions and achievements, have embodied and perpetuated the sport of Cowboy Action Shooting and the Single Action Shooting Society.

Every inductee perpetuates and enriches the multi-layered facets of the Single Action Shooting Society and is asked to donate personal items relating to their participation in the game.

Through these distinguished inductions, the SASS Hall of Fame and Museum provides a generational continuity with the past, present and future and creates a record of a game that has become a family oriented pastime and passion that preserves our Great American Culture.

Founding Contributions

The SASS Museum is funded through contributions from the membership of the Single Action Shooting Society, the Western Lifestyles public and fundraisers at membership events.

Your contribution will ensure the success in bringing such a worthwhile project to fruition, The SASS Museum will need financial support from many sources.

Please be a part of this momentous milestone by becoming a Founding Contributor to the Museum.

SASS COWBOY ACTION MATCH MANAGEMENT & SCORING SYSTEM

Simply the Best Way to Track, Monitor and Manage All of Your Cowboy Action Shooting Match Needs!

The Match Management & Scoring System

The Match Management & Scoring System uses MS Access as its database engine. Since the install program includes the MS Access runtime module you won't need to purchase any additional software.

If you own MS Word the Match Management & Scoring System will extract mail merges for name and address labels. You can create your own specialized match certificates and the system will merge category winners into these templates.

During annual or regional matches you can track many different criteria, such as: dinner tickets, gun cart rentals, registration input (whether your registrations come from your web site, regular mail, e-mail, etc).

The Vendor registration module includes space management and tracking of payments and sponsorship fees. This module also prints vendor badges and dinner tickets.

The Match Management & Scoring System is capable of scoring by rank points, total time or category total time just by selecting the check box you want.

You're also able to track misses, penalties and bonuses so shooter can track their progress.

Annual Support

After the first year there is an annual support fee of $60.00 per year. This support fee covers all program updates, e-mail and telephone support.

Benefits

- Track misses, penalties & bonuses
- Scores are computed
- Computerized posse assignments
- Print stage score sheets
- Print individual personalized score cards
- Easy extraction to Excel
- Score by individual or by posse/stage
- Print your own certificates
- Print confirmation letters
- Print dinner tickets
- Mailing labels
- Vendor registration
- Event tracking
- Integrated mail merges with MS Word
- Much, much more

SASS® – THE SINGLE ACTION SHOOTING SOCIETY®

JOIN THE ACTION NOW!!!

The Single Action Shooting Society™ is an international membership organization created to preserve and promote the sport of Cowboy Action Shooting™. SASS® endorses regional matches conducted by affiliated clubs, stages END of TRAIL™, The World Championship of Cowboy Action Shooting™, promulgates rules and procedures to ensure safety and consistency in Cowboy Action Shooting™ and seeks to protect it's members' 2nd amendment rights. SASS® members share a common interest in preserving the history and traditions of the old west and competitive shooting.

OLD WEST ALIAS AND COSTUMES

One of the unique aspects of SASS® Cowboy Action Shooting™ is the requirement placed on costuming. Participants are required to adopt a shooting alias appropriate to a character or profession of the late 19th century, a Hollywood western star or an appropriate character from fiction. Their costume is then developed accordingly. Many participants gain more enjoyment from the costuming aspect of our sport than from the shooting competition, itself. Regardless of a SASS® member's individual area of interest, SASS® events provide regular opportunities for fellowship and fun with like-minded folks and families.

OLD WEST FIREARMS

Cowboy Action Shooting™ is a multi-faceted shooting sport in which contestants compete with firearms typical of those used in the taming of the old west: single action revolvers, pistol caliber lever action rifles old time shotguns. The shooting competition is staged in a unique, characterized, "old west" style.
